Federal Budget Extract

Definition of "Prescribed Benefit" for Purposes of Tax Shelters

[Reproduced below is an excerpt from the February 18, 2003 federal Budget that sets out a proposed change to the definition of "prescribed benefit" in paragraph 231(6)(b) of the Income Tax Regulations.]

While the existing definition of "tax shelter" in the Income Tax Act applies to arrangements promoted as providing deductions in computing income or taxable income, it may not currently apply to those that are promoted as providing only the deduction of tax credits. The budget proposes to eliminate this technical distinction so that promoters will be required to register a property as a tax shelter if representations are made that a potential purchaser will be able to claim, within four years, any combination of deductions in computing income or taxable income and federal tax credits which in total equal or exceed the purchaser's net cost of the property. The definition of tax shelter will also be amended to clarify its application to property acquired under an arrangement in respect of which it is represented that a donation or contribution of the property would generate tax credits or deductions (such as charitable donations tax credits or deductions) equal to or exceeding the net cost to the donor of the property. [Editorial note: See the definition of "tax shelter" in subsection 237.1(1) of the Act, which was amended by S.C. 2003, c. 15.]

In order to avoid a double counting of tax credits in the formula used to determine if a property or an arrangement is a tax shelter, it is proposed that the definition of "prescribed benefits" in paragraph 231(6)(b) of the Income Tax Regulations be amended to exclude any federal tax credit already taken into account in determining whether tax credits and deductions exceed net cost. Provincial tax credits would continue to be considered prescribed benefits.

"(b) that the purchaser or a person with whom the purchaser does not deal at arm's length is entitled at any time to receive, directly or indirectly, or to have available"

S. 231(6)(b), the portion after subparagraph (i), was amended by P.C. 2000-1000, SOR/2000-248, dated June 21, 2000, applicable to taxation years ending after the date of the initial publication of these Regulations in the Canada Gazette. S. 231(6)(b), the portion after subparagraph (i), formerly read:

"(ii) by reason of a revenue guarantee or other agreement in respect of which revenue may be earned by the purchaser or a person with whom the purchaser does not deal at arm's length, to the extent that the revenue guarantee or other agreement may reasonably be considered to ensure that the purchaser or person will receive a return of all or a portion of the purchaser's outlays in respect of the tax shelter,

(c) that is the proceeds of disposition to which the purchaser may be entitled by way of an agreement or other arrangement under which the purchaser has a right, either absolutely or contingently, to dispose of the interest in the tax shelter (otherwise than as a consequence of the purchaser's death), including the fair market value of any property that the agreement or arrangement provides for the acquisition of in exchange for all or any part of the interest in the tax shelter, and

(d) that is owed to a promoter, or a person with whom the promoter does not deal at arm's length, by the purchaser or a person with whom the purchaser does not deal at arm's length in respect of the acquisition of an interest in the tax shelter

but, except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (b)(ii), does not include profits earned in respect of the tax shelter."

S. 231(6), the portion before clause (a)(ii)(B), was amended by P.C. 2000-1000, SOR/2000-248, dated June 21, 2000, applicable to taxation years ending after the date of the initial publication of these Regulations in the Canada Gazette. S. 231(6), the portion before clause (a)(ii)(B), formerly read:

"(6) For the purposes of paragraph (b) of the definition 'tax shelter' in subsection 237.1(1) of the Act, 'prescribed benefit' in relation to a tax shelter means any amount that may reasonably be expected, having regard to statements or representations made in respect of the tax shelter, to be received by or made available to a person (in this subsection referred to as 'the purchaser') who acquires an interest in the tax shelter, or a person with whom the purchaser does not deal at arm's length, which receipt or availability would have the effect of reducing the impact of any loss that the purchaser may sustain by virtue of acquiring, holding or disposing of the interest in the tax shelter, and includes such an amount

(a) that is, either immediately or in the future, owed to any other person by the purchaser or a person with whom the purchaser does not deal at arm's length, to the extent that

(i) liability to pay that amount is contingent,

(ii) payment of that amount is or will be guaranteed by, security is or will be provided by, or an agreement to indemnify the other person to whom the amount is owed is or will be entered into by

(A) a promoter in respect of the tax shelter,"

(6.1) For the purpose of paragraph (b) of the definition "tax shelter" in subsection 237.1(1) of the Act, "prescribed benefit" in respect of an interest in a property includes an amount that is a limited-recourse amount because of subsection 143.2(1), (7) or (13) of the Act, but does not include an amount of indebtedness that is a limited-recourse amount

(B) at least 90% of the value of all interests in which are held by limited partners (within the meaning assigned by subsection 96(2.4) of the Act) of the partnership, except where it is reasonable to conclude that one of the main reasons for the acquisition of one or more properties by the partnership, or for the acquisition of one or more interests in the partnership by limited partners, is to avoid the application of this subsection, or

(ii) a member of a partnership having fewer than six members, except where

(A) the partnership is a member of another partnership,

(B) there is a limited partner (within the meaning assigned by subsection 96(2.4) of the Act) of the partnership,

(D) it is reasonable to conclude that one of the main reasons for the existence of one of two or more partnerships, one of which is the partnership, or the acquisition of one or more properties by the partnership, is to avoid the application of this section to the member's indebtedness,

(b) of a partnership

(i) where

(A) the indebtedness is secured by and used to acquire the partnership's tangible capital property located in Canada (other than rental property, within the meaning assigned by subsection 1100(14), leasing property, within the meaning assigned by subsection 1100(17), or specified energy property, within the meaning assigned by subsection 1100(25)), and

(B) the person to whom the indebtedness is repayable is a member of the Canadian Payments Association, and

(ii) throughout the period during which any amount is outstanding in respect of the indebtedness,

(A) at least 90% of the fair market value of the property of which is attributable to tangible capital property located in Canada of the partnership,

(B) at least 90% of the value of all interests in which are held by limited partners (within the meaning assigned by subsection 96(2.4) of the Act) that are corporations, and

(C) the principal business of each such limited partner is related to the principal business of the partnership, except where it is reasonable to conclude that one of the main reasons for the acquisition of one or more properties by the partnership, or for the acquisition of one or more interests in the partnership by limited partners, is to avoid the application of this subsection, or

(c) of a corporation where the amount is a bona fide business loan made to the corporation for the purpose of financing a business that the corporation operates and the loan is made pursuant to a loan program of the Government of Canada or of a province the purpose of which is to extend financing to small- and medium-sized Canadian businesses.

PART III

Annuities and Life Insurance Policies

CAPITAL ELEMENT OF ANNUITY PAYMENTS

300. (1) For the purposes of paragraphs 32.1(3)(b) and 60(a) of the Act, where an annuity is paid under a contract (other than an income-averaging annuity contract or an annuity contract purchased pursuant to a deferred profit sharing plan or pursuant to a plan referred to in subsection 147(15) of the Act as a "revoked plan") at a particular time, that part of the annuity payment determined in prescribed manner to be a return of capital is that proportion of a taxpayer's interest in the annuity payment that the adjusted purchase price of the taxpayer's interest in the contract at that particular time is of his interest, immediately before the commencement under the contract of payments to which paragraph 56(1)(d) of the Act applies, in the total of the payments

(a) to be made under the contract, in the case of a contract for a term of years certain; or

(b) expected to be made under the contract, in the case of a contract under which the continuation of the payments depends in whole or in part on the survival of an individual.

History: The headings preceding s. 300 and the portion of s. 300(1) preceding paragraph (a) were amended by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

Interpretation Bulletins: Secondary— IT-500R Registered retirement savings plans — Death of annuitant.

(1.1) For the purposes of subsections (1) and (2), "annuity payment" does not include any portion of a payment under a contract the amount of which cannot be reasonably determined immediately before the commencement of payments under the contract except where the payment of such portion cannot be so determined because the continuation of the annuity payments under the contract depends in whole or in part on the survival of an individual.

History: S. 300(1.1) was added by P.C. 1982-1421, SOR/82-499, dated May 13, 1982, and effective with respect to annuity contracts under which annuity payments commence after 1981.

(2) For the purposes of this section and section 305,

(a) where the continuance of the annuity payments under any contract depends in whole or in part on the survival of an individual, the total of the payments expected to be made under the contract

(i) shall, in the case of a contract that provides for equal payments and does not provide for a guaranteed period of payment, be equal to the product obtained by multiplying the aggregate of the annuity payments expected to be received throughout a year under the contract by the complete expectations of life using the table of mortality known as the 1971 Individual Annuity Mortality Table as published in Volume XXIII of the Transactions of the Society of Actuaries, or

(ii) shall, in any other case, be calculated in accordance with subparagraph (i) with such modifications as the circumstances may require;

(b) except as provided in subsections (3) and (4), "adjusted purchase price" of a taxpayer's interest in an annuity contract at a particular time means the amount that would be determined at that time in respect of that interest under paragraph 148(9)(a) [subsection 148(9) "adjusted cost basis"] of the Act if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraph (viii) [subsection 148(9) "adjusted cost basis", item K] thereof;

(c) where the continuance of the annual payments under any contract depends on the survival of a person, the age of that person on any date as of which a calculation is being made shall be determined by subtracting the calendar year of his birth from the calendar year in which such date occurs; and

(d) where the continuance of the annual payments under any contract depends on the survival of a person, and where, in the event of the death of that person before the annual payments aggregate a stated sum, the contract provides that the unpaid balance of the stated sum shall be paid, either in a lump sum or instalments, then, for the purpose of determining the expected term of the contract, the contract shall be deemed to provide for the continuance of the payments thereunder for a minimum term certain equal to the nearest integral number of years required to complete the payment of the stated sum.

(e) [Revoked.]

History: The portion preceding s. 300(2)(a) was amended by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, to add "and section 305", applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

S. 300(2)(b) was amended by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, effective November 12, 1981.

Interpretation Bulletins: Secondary — IT-500R Registered retirement savings plans — Death of annuitant.

(3) Where

(a) an annuity contract is a life annuity contract entered into before November 17, 1978 under which the annuity payments commence on the death of an individual,

(a.1) [Revoked.]

(b) an annuity contract (other than an annuity contract described in paragraph (a)) is

(i) a life annuity contract entered into before October 23, 1968, or

(ii) any other annuity contract entered into before January 4, 1968, under which the annuity payments commence

(iii) on the expiration of a term of years, and

(iv) before the later of January 1, 1970 and the tax anniversary date of the annuity contract, the adjusted purchase price of a taxpayer's interest in the annuity contract shall be

(c) the lump sum, if any, that the person entitled to the annuity payments might have accepted in lieu thereof, at the date the annuity payments commence;

(d) if no lump sum described in paragraph (c) is provided for in the contract, the sum ascertainable from the contract as the present value of the annuity at the date the annuity payments commence; and

(e) if no lump sum described in paragraph (c) is provided for in the contract and no sum is ascertainable under paragraph (d),

(i) in the case of a contract issued under the Government Annuities Act, the premiums paid, accumulated with interest at the rate of four per cent per annum to the date the annuity payments commence, and

(ii) in the case of any other contract, the present value of the annuity payments at the date on which payments under the contract commence, computed by applying

(A) a rate of interest of four per cent per annum where the payments commence before 1972 and 5½ per cent per annum where the payments commence after 1971, and

(B) the provisions of subsection (2) where the payments depend on the survival of a person.

History: S. 300(3)(a.1) was revoked and s. 300(3)(b), the part preceding subparagraph (i), was amended by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, to delete the reference to paragraph (a.1) in the case of s. 300(3)(b), both applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

Interpretation Bulletins: Secondary — IT-500R Registered retirement savings plans — Death of annuitant.

(4) Where an annuity contract would be described in paragraph (3)(b) if the reference in subparagraph (iv) thereof to "before the later of" were read as a reference to "on or after the later of", the adjusted purchase price of a taxpayer's interest in the annuity contract at a particular time shall be the greater of

(a) the aggregate of

(i) the amount that would be determined in respect of that interest under paragraph (3)(c), (d) or (e), as the case may be, if the date referred to therein was the tax anniversary date of the contract and not the date the annuity payments commence, and

(ii) the adjusted purchase price that would be determined in respect of that interest if the words "and after the tax anniversary date" were inserted in each of subparagraphs 148(9)(a)(i) to (iii.1) and (vi) [subsection 148(9) "adjusted cost basis", items A to D and H] of the Act immediately following the words "before that time" in each of those subparagraphs; and

(b) the amount determined under paragraph (2)(b) in respect of that interest.

Life Annuity Contracts

301. (1) For the purposes of this Part and section 148 of the Act, "life annuity contract" means any contract under which a person authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business agrees to make annuity payments to an individual (in this section referred to as "the annuitant") or jointly to two or more individuals (each of whom is referred to as "the annuitant" in this section), which payments are, by the terms of the contract,

(a) to be paid annually or at more frequent periodic intervals;

(b) to commence on a specified day; and

(c) to continue throughout the lifetime of the annuitant or one or more of the annuitants.

Department of Finance Comfort Letter [Third-Party Life Annuity Contracts]

September 12, 2002

Dear XXXX

This is in reply to your letter dated June 12, 2002 concerning third-party life annuity contracts and the definition of adjusted cost basis (ACB) found in subsection 148(9) of the Income Tax Act (the Act).

In your letter you have recommended that the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsection 148(9) of the Act be amended to replace the term "life annuity contract" currently found therein with the term "annuity contract". You have indicated that the term "life annuity contract", as defined in subsection 301(1) of the Income Tax Regulations (the Regulations), is overly restrictive because it excludes certain third-party life annuity contracts under which annuity payments are dependent on the life of an individual but the annuitants are either not individuals or are not the individual on whose life the annuity payments are dependent. You have pointed out that subsection 12.2(1) of the Act may inappropriately require an income inclusion in respect of interests in such third-party life annuity contracts because mortality gains and losses affect the determination of the accumulating fund in respect of the interest but not the ACB of the interest.

You have also requested that the amendments be effective for the 1981 and subsequent taxation years (the effective date for subsection 12.2(1)), in order to reflect the historical industry practice which, in your view, provides the appropriate tax result.

We agree with your conclusion that the definition "life annuity contract" in subsection 301(1) of the Regulations is overly restrictive and can result in inappropriate income inclusions under subsection 12.2(1) of the Act. We do, however, envision a different solution to this issue than that which you have suggested. In particular, we propose to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the definition "life annuity contract" in subsection 301(1) of the Regulations be amended to include life annuity contracts under which the annuitant is a partnership or a person as well as life annuity contracts under which the annuity payments are based on the life of an individual who is not the annuitant. We also propose to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the proposed amendments to the definition "life annuity contract" in subsection 301(1) of the Regulations be made applicable to taxation years that end after 1996. However, in calculating the adjusted cost basis to a policyholder of the policyholder's interest in a life insurance policy for taxation years that end after 1996, the proposed amendments will be made applicable, for the purposes of applying the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsection 148(9) of the Act, to taxation years that end after 1980.

If the recommendation is accepted we will begin the process of submitting the amendments to the Income Tax Regulations for approval and promulgation.

Thank you for bringing this matter to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
General Director
Tax Legislation Division
Tax Policy Branch

History: S. 301(1), the part preceding paragraph (a), was amended by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, effective November 12, 1981.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), a contract shall not fail to be a life annuity contract by reason that

(a) the contract provides that the annuity payments may be assigned by the annuitant or owner;

(b) the contract provides for annuity payments to be made for a period ending upon the death of the annuitant or for a specified period of not less than 10 years, whichever is the lesser;

(c) the contract provides for annuity payments to be made for a specified period or throughout the lifetime of the annuitant, whichever is longer, to the annuitant and thereafter, if the specified period is the longer, to a specified person;

(d) the contract provides, in addition to the annuity payments to be made throughout the lifetime of the annuitant, for a payment to be made upon the annuitant's death;

(e) the contract provides that the date

(i) on which the annuity payments commence, or

(ii) on which the contract holder becomes entitled to proceeds of the disposition, may be changed with respect to the whole contract or any portion thereof at the option of the annuitant or owner; or

(f) the contract provides that all or a portion of the proceeds payable at any particular time under the contract may be received in the form of an annuity contract other than a life annuity contract.

History: Ss. 301(2)(a) and (e) were amended, and s. 301(2)(f) was added by P.C. 1982-1421, SOR/82-499, dated May 13, 1982, and effective January 1, 1982. Ss. 301(2)(a) and (e) formerly read:

"(a) the contract provides for a reduction in the amount of each annual or other periodic annuity payment to the annuitant, if a pension becomes payable to the annuitant under the Old Age Security Act, by an annual or other periodic amount not exceeding the amount payable to the annuitant in that period under the Old Age Security Act;"

"(e) in a case where annuity payments are required to be made jointly to two or more individuals, the contract provides for a reduction in the amount of each annuity payment to be made to the surviving annuitant or annuitants upon the death of any of the annuitants."

302. [Revoked.]

History: S. 302, along with its heading, was revoked by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982 and, in its application to the period before November 24, 1983 and commencing November 12, 1981, all that portion of s. 302(1) preceding paragraph (a) thereof shall be read as follows:

"S. 302.

(1) For the purposes of subsection 12(4) of the Act, 'an amount determined in prescribed manner' for a taxation year in respect of an interest in an annuity contract, except to the extent that the contract is a segregated fund policy (within the meaning assigned by subsection 138.1(1) of the Act), held by a taxpayer or partnership (in this section and sections 303 and 304 referred to as the 'holder') means the aggregate of"

303. (1) Where in a taxation year the rights of a holder under an annuity contract cease upon termination or cancellation of the contract and

(a) the aggregate of all amounts, each of which is an amount in respect of the contract that was included in computing the income of the holder for the year or any previous taxation year by virtue of subsection 12(3) of the Act

exceeds the aggregate of

(b) such proportion of the amount determined under paragraph (a) that the annuity payments made under the contract before the rights of the holder have ceased is of the total of the payments expected to be made under the contract, and

(c) the aggregate of all amounts, each of which is an amount in respect of the contract that was deductible in computing the income of the holder for the year or any previous year by virtue of subsection (2), the amount of such excess may be deducted by the holder under subsection 20(19) of the Act in computing his income for the year.

History: S. 303(1)(b) was amended by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, effective November 12, 1981. S. 303(1)(b) formerly read:

"(b) such proportion of the aggregate of all amounts, each of which is an amount in respect of the contract that was added to the adjusted purchase price by virtue of subparagraph 300(2)(b)(v) that the annuity payments made under the contract before the rights of the holder have ceased is of the total of the payments expected to be made under the contract, and"

S. 303(1) was added by P.C. 1982-1421, SOR/82-499, dated May 13, 1982, with subsection (1) applicable to taxation years commencing after October 28, 1980 and subsection (2) effective December 20, 1980.

(2) For the purposes of subsection 20(19) of the Act, where an annuity contract was acquired after December 19, 1980 and annuity payments under the contract commenced before 1982, the amount that may be deducted by a holder under that subsection in respect of an annuity contract for a taxation year is that proportion of

(a) the aggregate of all amounts, each of which is an amount that was included in computing the income of the holder for any previous taxation year by virtue of subsection 12(3) of the Act in respect of the contract that

(b) the aggregate of all annuity payments received by the holder in the year in respect of the contract

is of

Issues and objectives

Prior to 1994, there was uncertainty as to whether profits and losses on securities held by financial institutions were on income account, and thus fully recognized in computing income, or on capital account, and instead subject to capital gains treatment. Securities of financial institutions acquired in the ordinary course of business should be treated as being on income account because investments in securities are an integral part of the financial intermediation business. In addition to this issue concerning the "character" of income or losses, additional concerns existed regarding the timing of when profits and losses on securities held by financial institutions were to be recognized.

Description and rationale

To address these concerns, Budget 1994 proposed new rules that required the profits and losses in respect of certain securities held by financial institutions to be recognized in income. Further, these proposals required that these securities be marked-to-market, meaning that the appreciation or depreciation in their value each taxation year would be recognized in the year. This mark-to-market treatment was to apply to securities, such as equity securities and debt securities, acquired in the ordinary course of business of a financial institution. Transitional rules were also proposed that would permit any net increase in income resulting from the change to a mark-to-market approach to be spread over five years. These measures were to apply for taxation years ending after February 22, 1994. The amendments to the Income Tax Act (the "Act") necessary to implement these budget proposals were enacted in 1995 (the "1995 Amendments").

These proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (the "ITR") are intended to give full effect to the 1995 Amendments. They were previously released in draft form for public consultation in June 1995. Because these proposed Regulations are complementary to the 1995 Amendments, the Canada Revenue Agency has been administering those amendments taking into account the draft regulations released in June 1995.

This current package contains some amendments to the proposed Regulations from their previous release, which are outlined below.

The proposed Regulations contain a number of main aspects generally identified under the following headings:

Transitional rules

The 1995 Amendments provided transitional relief for financial institutions in respect of property that, once the rules came into effect (for taxation years ending after October 30, 1994), was determined to be "mark-to-market property" (generally, shares or certain debt obligations that the financial institution marks-to-market in its financial statements). This relief was intended, generally, to allow financial institutions to bring in the income and capital gains realized on the initial deemed disposition of such property (as a result of it being marked-to-market) over a five-year period. Proposed additions to Part LXXXI of the ITR provide the rules that determine prescribed amounts for this purpose. Although the transition years are now past, these additions are necessary to validate the filings of taxpayers in respect of those years.

Debt obligations held by financial institutions

The 1995 Amendments set out that each year a financial institution must include or deduct an amount in computing income in respect of certain debt obligations ("specified debt obligations") held by the financial institution. A "specified debt obligation" is, generally, a taxpayer's interest in a loan, bond, debenture, mortgage, note, agreement of sale or any other similar indebtedness, or in any debt obligation purchased by the taxpayer. Proposed Part XCI of the ITR sets out the rules that determine the amounts that will be either included or deducted in computing income.

These rules are designed to take into account both interest and the difference between the acquisition price and the face amount of the obligation — that is, the total economic return to the taxpayer. The amount to be included in income each year will usually correspond to the amount determined under generally accepted accounting principles. Additional amounts may be included or deducted in computing income in respect of foreign currency denominated obligations and obligations with payments that are subject to contingencies.

Disposition of debt obligations held by financial institutions

The 1995 Amendments set out a number of special rules that apply when a financial institution disposes of a specified debt obligation. Proposed Part XCII of the ITR provides supporting rules for these provisions. These supporting rules have three main aspects.

The first is to provide rules that calculate a transition amount in respect of obligations held by a financial institution before the 1995 Amendments began to apply.

The second main aspect concerns rules supporting the 1995 Amendments' requirement to include, in computing income each year, part of a "residual portion" of any gain or loss from a disposition of a specified debt obligation (i.e. the portion of the gain or loss that is not related to the credit-worthiness of the debtor), starting in the year of disposition. Part XCII provides for the residual portion of a gain to be amortized over the remaining term to maturity of the obligation.

Finally, the 1995 Amendments provide that certain specified debt obligations, including certain prescribed obligations, are not subject to this amortization requirement, instead requiring that the entire gain or loss from the disposition be included in computing the financial institution's income for the year. Excluding such obligations from the requirement to spread gains and losses facilitates compliance with the 1995 Amendments. Part XCII includes as "prescribed obligations" any obligation that has less than two years to maturity from the end of the taxation year in which it is disposed of, any obligation whose disposition results in its extinguishment and any obligation if the taxpayer's net gain or loss from the disposition of the obligation and from other obligations disposed of in the same transaction does not exceed $5,000 (or such lower amount as the taxpayer elects).

Other amendments

Because insurance corporations are included as "financial institutions" under the 1995 Amendments, they are subject to the requirements imposed by these rules. As a result, amendments are proposed to Part XXIV of the ITR affecting life insurance corporations to take into account their transition into and ongoing subjection to the mark-to-market regime.

In addition, the enactment of the 1995 Amendments requires the proposed amendment to Part III of the ITR dealing with prescribed annuity contracts. This change is required because subsection 39(5) of the Act was amended to replace several of its paragraphs by a reference to "financial institutions" (as defined in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act). Consequently, subparagraph 304(1)(c)(ii) is proposed to be amended to refer to corporations referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (c) of the definition of "specified financial institution" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, which are the same corporations as were referred to in paragraphs 39(5)(b) to (d) of the Act.

Finally, an amendment is also proposed to Part LXII to provide that a security is prescribed (and thus not a "lending asset") if it is a mark-to-market property or is included in a taxpayer's inventory. As a consequence of this amendment, a specified debt obligation held by a bank in its trading account will be treated as a lending asset if it is not a mark-to-market property. This observation applies, in particular, to the debt obligations of a country that has been designated by the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions and to the United Mexican States Collateralized Par or Discount Bonds Due 2019.

Changes to the 1995 Draft Regulations

The following changes have been made to the draft amendments that were released in June of 1995:

- The application provision for amendments to section 2405 of the ITR has been amended to reflect that section 2405 does not apply to the 1999 and subsequent taxation years.
- The amendment in Part XXIV of the ITR to subsection 2411(1), dealing with amounts required to be included in income by multinational insurers, and the amendment adding element G.1 in the formula in subsection 2411(3), which sets out the minimum amount that an insurer must report as its net investment revenue in a taxation year, are not in this package as they were enacted in 2000.
- The amendment in Part XXIV of the ITR to the description of element A.1 of the formula in subsection 2411(3) was enacted in 2000, but remains in the package to clarify that the dispositions of Canadian investment property referred to in the description (other than dispositions of Canadian equity property) may be in the year or any preceding taxation year.
- The amendment in Part XXIV of the ITR to element A in subsection 2411(4), which sets out an insurer's net investment revenue from different classes of property, is not in this package as it was enacted in 2000 and element B in subsection 2411(4) is also amended for the 1999 and subsequent taxation years as a consequence of the changes made in 2000 to Part XXIV of the ITR.
- The addition in Part XXIV of the ITR of subsection 2411(4.1), which contains rules that apply with respect to the disposition of certain specified debt obligations by an insurer, is not in this package as it was enacted in 2000.
- The amendment in Part LI of the ITR to paragraph (c) of the definition "eligible corporation" in subsection 5100(1) is not in this package as it was enacted in 1999.
- The amendments in Part LXII of the ITR to subsections 6201(5) and (5.1) are not in this package as they were enacted in 2007.
- The amendments in Part XC of the ITR are not in this package as they will be enacted separately.
- Subsection 9102(4) in Part XCI of the ITR, which provides that no accrual adjustment is necessary in the first year a taxpayer owns a property as a specified debt obligation, has been amended in order to clarify its operation.
- As previously announced in 1997, subsection 9103(2) in Part XCI of the ITR is proposed to be repealed. The repeal of subsection 9103(2) would apply to taxation years that end after September 1997, and also to taxation years that end after 1995 and before October 1997 where the taxpayer has elected to have the amendments made to paragraph 20(1)(l) (which permits a taxpayer who is an insurer or whose ordinary business includes the lending of money to claim a reserve in respect of doubtful loans and lending assets) of the Act in 1998 apply to those years.
- Subsection 9103(3) in Part XCI of the ITR, which would provide that amendments to the terms of a specified debt obligation are to be taken into account in determining accrued returns and adjustments, has been amended in order to clarify its operation. The amended version is proposed to be effective for taxation years beginning on or after the date subsection 9103(3) is prepublished in Part I of the Canada Gazette.

- The June 1995 draft amendments contained a number of definitions that specifically adopted the meaning of defined terms in the Act. A number of these definitions are not included in the current package because their meanings in the Act apply automatically in the relevant regulations by virtue of the Interpretation Act.
- Certain headings have been removed and marginal notes have been added to reflect current drafting practices and make the amendments easier to read.
- A number of style changes have been made to reflect current practice; however, these changes do not change the meaning of the provisions.

The 1994 Budget proposals (including the effects of the 1995 Amendments to the Act and the proposed regulations) were projected to raise $60 million in each of the first three years of application of the measures. As these regulations are complementary to the changes made to the Act in 1995, the Canada Revenue Agency has been administering the provisions taking into account the draft regulations as first released. As such, the revenue implications from the actual promulgation of these regulations should be minimal.

Consultation

The Canada Revenue Agency was consulted in the drafting of these proposed regulations. In addition, these regulations were released in draft form to the public in 1995 and any comments received have been duly considered.

Implementation, enforcement and service standards

The Act provides the necessary implementation and enforcement mechanisms. These mechanisms allow the Minister of National Revenue to issue forms on which taxpayers must calculate their income tax, assess and reassess tax payable, conduct audits and seize relevant records and documents.

Prescribed Annuity Contracts

Section 304 of the Income Tax Regulations prescribes certain annuity contracts for exclusion from the rules in the Income Tax Act that require income from insurance policies to be reported on an accrual basis. Paragraph 304(1)(c) provides an exclusion for an annuity under which payments have commenced if a number of other conditions are also satisfied. Subparagraph 304(1)(c)(ii) requires that the annuity have been issued by a person specified in that provision. Acceptable issuers include corporations described in any of paragraphs 39(5)(b) to (d) of the Act — banks, trust companies and credit unions.

Subsection 39(5) of the Act is being amended to replace several of its paragraphs by a reference to "financial institutions" (as defined in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act). Consequently, subparagraph 304(1)(c)(ii) is amended to refer to corporations referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (c) of the definition of "specified financial institution" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, which are the same corporations as were referred to in paragraphs 39(5)(b) to (d).

(iii) each holder of which

(A) is an individual, other than a trust that is neither a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) of the Act (in this paragraph referred to as a "specified trust") nor a testamentary trust,

(B) is an annuitant under the contract, and

(C) throughout the taxation year, dealt at arm's length with the issuer,

(iv) the terms and conditions of which require that, from the time the contract meets the requirements of this paragraph,

(A) all payments made out of the contract be equal annuity payments made at regular intervals but not less frequently than annually, subject to the holder's right to vary the frequency and quantum of payments to be made out of the contract in any taxation year without altering the present value at the beginning of the year of the total payments to be made in that year out of the contract,

(B) the annuity payments thereunder continue for a fixed term or

(I) if the holder is an individual (other than a trust), for the life of the first holder or until the day of the later of the death of the first holder and the death of any of the spouse, common-law partner, former spouse, former common-law partner, brothers and sisters (in this subparagraph referred to as "the survivor") of the first holder, or

(II) if the holder is a specified trust, for the life of the spouse or common-law partner who is entitled to receive the income of the trust,

(C) where the annuity payments are to be made over a term that is guaranteed or fixed, the guaranteed or fixed term not extend beyond the time at which

(I) in the case of a joint and last survivor annuity, the younger of the first holder and the survivor,

(II) if the holder is a specified trust, the spouse or common-law partner who is entitled to receive the income of the trust,

(III) if the holder is a testamentary trust other than a specified trust, the youngest beneficiary under the trust,

(IV) where the contract is held jointly, the younger of the first holders, or

(V) in any other case, the first holder, would, if he survived, attain the age of 91 years,

(D) no loans exist under the contract and the holder's rights under the contract not be disposed of otherwise than on the holder's death or, if the holder is a specified trust, on the death of the spouse or common-law partner who is entitled to receive the income of the trust, and

(E) no payments be made out of the contract other than as permitted by this section,

(v) none of the terms and conditions of which provide for any recourse against the issuer for failure to make any payment under the contract, and

(vi) where annuity payments under the contract have commenced

(A) before 1987, in respect of which a holder thereof has notified the issuer in writing, before the end of the taxation year, that the contract is to be treated as a prescribed annuity contract,

(B) after 1986, in respect of which a holder thereof has not notified the issuer in writing, before the end of the taxation year in which the annuity payments under the contract commenced, that the contract is not to be treated as a prescribed annuity contract, or

(C) after 1986, in respect of which a holder thereof has notified the issuer in writing, before the end of the taxation year in which the annuity payments under the contract commenced, that the contract is not to be treated as a prescribed annuity contract and a holder thereof has rescinded the notification by so notifying the issuer in writing before the end of the taxation year.

Department of Finance Comfort Letter
[Last Survivor Annuity Contracts to be Prescribed in Regulation 304]

June 27, 2003

Dear XXXX:

Thank you for your letter dated October 22, 2002, concerning section 304 of the Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations") and its application to last survivor annuity contracts held by joint spousal or common-law partner trusts.

Section 304 defines a "prescribed annuity contract" for a taxation year for the purposes of subsection 12.2(1) and paragraph 148(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act"). Alter ego trusts and joint spousal or common-law partner trusts are trusts described in paragraph 104(4)(a) of the Act and, as you mentioned in your letter and as confirmed by the Department in a comfort letter sent to your attention dated July 29, 2002, these trusts qualify as a specified trust under clause 304(1)(c)(iii)(A) of the Regulations.

However, a last survivor annuity contract, the annuity payments of which are determined by reference to the later of the death of an individual and the death of the individual's spouse or common-law partner who is entitled to receive the income of the trust, is not included in the definition of "prescribed annuity contract" in section 304 of the Regulations when held by a specified trust.

From a policy perspective, it appears appropriate for a last survivor annuity contract held by a specified trust to be prescribed as a prescribed annuity contract if all the other conditions of section 304 of the Regulations are met and the last survivor is the person that established the trust or the survivor as defined in that section. This treatment would be in accordance with the treatment under section 304 of the Regulation of last survivor annuity contracts held by individuals.

Consequently, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that amendments be made to section 304 of the Regulations to ensure that last survivor annuity contracts held by specified trusts as defined in section 304 of the Regulations be prescribed annuity contracts if all the other conditions of that section are met and the last survivor is the person that established the trust or the survivor as defined in that section.

You also mentioned in your letter that clause 304(1)(c)(iv)(B) of the Regulations does not provide for the situation where testamentary trusts (which are not specified trusts) hold annuity contracts that do not continue for a fixed term. From a policy perspective and in order to be consistent with clause 304(1)(c)(iv)(C) of the Regulations, we are prepared to recommend an amendment to the Regulations to prescribe this type of annuity contract under clause 304(1)(c)(iv)(B) where the payments continue for the life of any beneficiary entitled to receive the income from the trust.

Further, we intend to recommend that these proposed amendments apply to the 2000 and following taxation years.

Of course, I can offer no assurance that the Minister of Finance will agree with the recommendation that I have described. Nonetheless, I hope that this statement of our position is helpful.

Thank you for bringing this matter to our attention.

Department of Finance Comfort Letter
[Alter Ego Trusts Acquiring Annuity Contracts]

July 29, 2002

Dear XXXX

Thank you for your letter dated May 6, 2002, concerning section 304 of the Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations") and its application to alter ego trusts.

Section 304 defines a "prescribed annuity contract" for a taxation year for the purposes of subsection 12.2(1) and paragraph 148(2)(b) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act"). Alter ego trusts and joint spousal and common-law partner trusts are trusts described in paragraph 104(4)(a) of the Act and as you mentioned in your letter, these trusts would appear to qualify as a specified trust eligible to hold prescribed annuities under clause 304(1)(c)(iii)(A) of the Regulations.

However, it would appear that an alter ego trust would not be able to acquire an annuity contract that is a prescribed annuity contract because subclauses 304(1)(c)(iv)(B)(II) and 304(1)(c)(iv)(C)(II) require, in the case of a specified trust, that the terms of the contract determine annuity payments by reference to the "spouse or common-law partner who is entitled to receive the income of the trust". Alter ego trusts do not comply with those subclauses because, in the case of alter ego trusts, the annuity payments would be determined by reference to the individual who is entitled to receive the income of the trust and not by reference to the spouse or common-law partner. As a result, you have requested that those subclauses be amended to allow alter ego trusts to hold prescribed annuity contracts.

From a policy perspective, it appears appropriate to permit an alter ego trust to be eligible to hold a prescribed annuity contract if all the other conditions of section 304 of the Regulations are met. This treatment would be in accordance with the treatment of the other trusts described in paragraph 104(4)(a) of the Act. Consequently, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that amendments be made to subclauses 304(1)(c)(iv)(B)(II) and 304(1)(c)(iv)(C)(II) of the Regulations to permit an alter ego trust to hold a prescribed annuity contract. Further, we intend to recommend that the amendments apply to the taxation years that begin after 2001.

Of course, I can offer no assurance that the Minister of Finance will agree with the recommendation that I have described. Nonetheless, I hope that this statement of our position is helpful.

Thank you for bringing this matter to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Department of Finance Press Release
Proposals Affecting Segregated Fund Policies and Other Annuity Contracts

[A portion of the text of Department of Finance Release No. 96-100, dated December 19, 1996, and part (b) of the accompanying appendix relating to the accrual rules for an annuity contract issued as an RRIF are reproduced below. Most of the release and appendix concerned the issue of segregated funds with respect to the foreign property rules under former Part XI of the Act.]

Finance Minister Paul Martin today announced a number of proposed measures affecting the tax treatment of annuity contracts, including segregated fund policies, offered by insurers.

The proposed changes are described in more detail in the attached appendix.

Appendix — Proposed changes for segregated funds and other annuities

Background

There are a number of different types of RRSPs and RRIFs currently available to Canadians. One type is the RRSP or RRIF trust, which is a trust established to hold "qualified investments" for the benefit of the RRSP or RRIF annuitant. Another type is the RRSP or RRIF deposit, which is a contract under which a financial institution agrees to repay a principal amount deposited plus stipulated interest.

[A]nnuities that are issued as RRIFs may technically not be exempt from the accrual rules under section 12.2 of the Act. These rules require income accruing under annuity contracts to be reported annually. The application of these rules to RRIFs is particularly anomalous because annuities issued as RRSPs are exempt from these rules.

Proposed Amendments

(b) Accrual Rules

- An annuity contract issued as a RRIF will not be subject to the accrual rules under section 12.2 of the Act.
- This amendment will be implemented by way of an amendment to subsection 304(1) of the Regulations. It is contemplated that it will apply to taxation years that begin after 1986, given that the original amendments to the Act that gave rise to the need for this amendment applied after 1986.

(b) in any other case, nil."

S. 304(4) was added by P.C. 1982-1421, SOR/82-499, dated May 13, 1982, and effective with respect to annuity contracts under which annuity payments commence after 1981.

(5) For the purpose of this section, "spouse" and "former spouse" of a particular individual include another individual who is a party to a void or voidable marriage with the particular individual.

History: S. 304(5) was added by P.C. 2007-849, SOR/2007-116, dated May 31, 2007, effective upon publication in the Canada Gazette, June 13, 2007.

S. 304(5) was revoked by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

Unallocated Income Accrued Before 1982

305. (1) For the purposes of section 12.2 and paragraph 56(1)(d.1) of the Act, the amount at any time of "unallocated income accrued in respect of the interest before 1982, as determined in prescribed manner", in respect of a taxpayer's interest in an annuity contract (other than an interest last acquired after December 1, 1982) or in a life insurance policy referred to in subsection (3), means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the accumulating fund at December 31, 1981 in respect of the interest exceeds the aggregate of

(b) his adjusted cost basis (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 148(9)(a) [subsection 148(9) "adjusted cost basis"] of the Act) at December 31, 1981 in respect of the interest; and

(c) that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under paragraph (a) exceeds the amount determined under paragraph (b) that

(i) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the amount of an annuity payment received before that time in respect of the interest

is of

(ii) the taxpayer's interest, immediately before the commencement of payments under the contract, in the total of the annuity payments

(A) to be made under the contract, in the case of a contract for a term of years certain, or

(B) expected to be made under the contract, in the case of a contract under which the continuation of the payments depends in whole or in part on the survival of an individual.

History: S. 305(1) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(c), "annuity payment" does not include any portion of a payment under a contract the amount of which cannot be reasonably determined immediately before the commencement of payments under the contract except where such portion cannot be so determined because the continuation of the annuity payments under the contract depends in whole or in part on the survival of an individual.

History: S. 305(2) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

(3) For the purposes of this section, an interest in an annuity contract to which subsection 12.2(9) of the Act applies shall be deemed to be a continuation of the interest in the life insurance policy in respect of which it was issued.

History: S. 305(3) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

EXEMPT POLICIES

306. (1) For the purposes of this Part and subsection 12.2(11) of the Act, "exempt policy" at any time means a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract or a deposit administration fund policy) in respect of which the following conditions are met at that time:

(a) if that time is a policy anniversary of the policy, the accumulating fund of the policy at that time (determined without regard to any policy loan) does not exceed the total of the accumulating funds at that time of the exemption test policies issued at or before that time in respect of the policy;

(b) assuming that the terms and conditions of the policy do not change from those in effect on the last policy anniversary of the policy at or before that time and, where necessary, making reasonable assumptions about all other factors (including, in the case of a participating life insurance policy within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12) of the Act, the assumption that the amounts of dividends paid will be as shown in the dividend scale), it is reasonable to expect that the condition in paragraph (a) will be met on each policy anniversary of the policy on which the policy could remain in force after that time and before the date determined under subparagraph (3)(d)(ii) with respect to the exemption test policies issued in respect of the policy;

(c) the condition in paragraph (a) was met on all policy anniversaries of the policy before that time; and

(d) the condition in paragraph (b) was met at all times on and after the first policy anniversary of the policy and before that time.

History: S. 306(1) was amended by P.C. 1994-940, SOR/94-415, dated June 2, 1994, applicable:

(a) with respect to a life insurance policy issued after March 26, 1992, other than a policy for which written application was made on or before March 26, 1992; and

(b) with respect to a life insurance policy amended at any time after March 26, 1992 to increase the amount of the benefit on death.

S. 306(1) formerly read:

"(1) For the purposes of this Part and paragraph 12.2(11)(a) of the Act, 'exempt policy' at any time means a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract or a deposit administration fund policy)

(a) in respect of which

(i) on the policy anniversary thereof, if any, occurring at that time, and

(ii) assuming that the terms and conditions of the policy do not change from those in effect on the last policy anniversary at or before that time and, where necessary, making reasonable assumptions about all other factors (including, in the case of a participating life insurance policy within the meaning assigned by paragraph 138(12)(k) of the Act, the assumption that the amounts of dividends paid will be as shown in the dividend scale), on each policy anniversary after that time on which the policy could remain in force and before the date determined under subparagraph (3)(d)(ii) with respect to any exemption test policy issued in respect of the policy, the accumulating fund (determined without regard to any policy loan) does not exceed (or, in the case of subparagraph (ii), would not exceed) the aggregate of the accumulating funds of the exemption test policies in respect of the life insurance policy at that time; and

(b) that has met the requirements of paragraph (a) on and after the date of its first policy anniversary."

S. 306(1) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

Interpretation Bulletins: Secondary — IT-87R2 Policyholders' income from life insurance policies.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), a life insurance policy that is an exempt policy on its first policy anniversary shall be deemed to have been an exempt policy from the time of its issue until that anniversary.

History: S. 306(2) was amended by P.C. 1994-940, SOR/94-415, dated June 2, 1994, applicable:

(a) with respect to a life insurance policy issued after March 26, 1992, other than a policy for which written application was made on or before March 26, 1992; and

(b) with respect to a life insurance policy amended at any time after March 26, 1992 to increase the amount of the benefit on death.

S. 306(2) formerly read:

"(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), any life insurance policy that meets the requirements of paragraph (1)(a) on its first policy anniversary shall be deemed to have been an exempt policy from the time of its issue until that anniversary."

S. 306(2) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

(3) For the purposes of this section and section 307, a separate exemption test policy shall be deemed to have been issued to a policyholder in respect of a life insurance policy

(a) on the date of issue of the life insurance policy, and

(b) on each policy anniversary of the life insurance policy where the amount of the benefit on death thereunder exceeds 108 per cent of the amount of the benefit on death thereunder on the later of the date of its issue and the date of its preceding anniversary, if any,

and, for the purpose of determining whether the accumulating fund of the life insurance policy on any particular policy anniversary meets the condition in paragraph (1)(a), each such exemption test policy shall be deemed

(c) to have a benefit on death that is uniform throughout the term of the exemption test policy and equal to

(i) where the exemption test policy is the first such policy issued in respect of the life insurance policy, the amount on that policy anniversary of the benefit on death of the life insurance policy less the total of all amounts each of which is the amount on that policy anniversary of the benefit on death of another exemption test policy issued on or before that policy anniversary in respect of the life insurance policy, and

(ii) in any other case, the amount by which the benefit on death of the life insurance policy on the date the exemption test policy was issued exceeds 108 per cent of the amount of the benefit on death of the life insurance policy on the later of the date of issue of the life insurance policy and the date of its preceding policy anniversary, if any;

(d) to pay the amount of its benefit on death on the earlier of

(i) the date of death of the person whose life is insured under the life insurance policy, and

(ii) the later of

(A) ten years after the date of issue of the life insurance policy, and

(B) the date that the person whose life is insured would, if he survived, attain the age of 85 years; and

(e) to be a life insurance policy in Canada issued by a life insurer that carried on its life insurance business in Canada.

History: S. 306(3), the part following paragraph (b) and before (c)(ii), was amended by P.C. 1994-940, SOR/94-415, dated June 2, 1994 and applicable

(a) with respect to a life insurance policy issued after March 26, 1992, other than a policy for which written application was made on or before March 26, 1992; and

(b) with respect to a life insurance policy amended at any time after March 26, 1992 to increase the amount of the benefit on death.

That part formerly read:

"and each such exemption test policy shall be deemed

(c) to have at any time a benefit on death equal to,

(i) where the exemption test policy is the first such policy issued in respect of the life insurance policy, the amount at that time of the benefit on death of the life insurance policy in respect of which it was issued less the aggregate of all amounts each of which is an amount determined under subparagraph (ii) at or before that time, or"

S. 306(3) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

(4) Notwithstanding subsections (1) to (3),

(a) where at any particular time the amount of the benefit on death of a life insurance policy is reduced, an amount equal to such reduction (such amount is in this paragraph referred to as "the reduction") shall be applied at that time to reduce the amount of the benefit on death of exemption test policies issued before that time in respect of the life insurance policy (other than the exemption test policy issued in respect thereof pursuant to paragraph (3)(a)), in the order in which the dates of their issuance are proximate to the particular time, by an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the portion, if any, of the reduction not applied to reduce the benefit on death of one or more other such exemption test policies, and

(ii) the amount, immediately before that time, of the benefit on death of the relevant exemption test policy;

(b) where on the tenth or on any subsequent policy anniversary of a life insurance policy, the accumulating fund thereof (computed without regard to any policy loan then outstanding in respect of the policy) exceeds 250 per cent of the accumulating fund thereof on its third preceding policy anniversary (computed without regard to any policy loan then outstanding in respect of the policy), each exemption test policy deemed by subsection (3) to have been issued before that time in respect of the life insurance policy shall be deemed to have been issued on the later of the date of that third preceding policy anniversary and the date on which it was deemed by subsection (3) to have been issued; and

(c) where at one or more times after December 1, 1982

(i) a prescribed premium has been paid by a taxpayer in respect of an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract or a deposit administration fund policy) last acquired on or before that date, or

(ii) an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract or a deposit administration fund policy) issued on or before that date has been acquired by a taxpayer from the person who held the interest continuously since that date, the policy shall be deemed to have been an exempt policy from the date of its issue until the earliest of those times that occurred after December 1, 1982; and

(d) a life insurance policy that ceases to be an exempt policy (other than by reason of its conversion into an annuity contract) on a policy anniversary shall be deemed to be an exempt policy on that anniversary

(i) if, had that anniversary occurred 60 days after the date on which it did in fact occur, the policy would have been an exempt policy on that later date, or

(ii) if the person whose life is insured under the policy dies on that anniversary or within 60 days thereafter.

ACCUMULATING FUNDS

307. (1) For the purposes of this Part and section 12.2, paragraph 56(1)(d.1) and section 148 of the Act, "accumulating fund" at any particular time means,

(a) in respect of a taxpayer's interest in an annuity contract (other than a contract issued by a life insurer), the amount that is the greater of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the cash surrender value of his interest at that time exceeds the amount payable, if any, in respect of a loan outstanding at that time made under the contract in respect of the interest, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the present value at that time of future payments to be made out of the contract in respect of his interest

exceeds the aggregate of

(B) the present value at that time of future premiums to be paid under the contract in respect of his interest, and

(C) the amount payable, if any, in respect of a loan outstanding at that time, made under the contract in respect of his interest;

(b) in respect of a taxpayer's interest in a life insurance policy (other than an exemption test policy or an annuity contract to which paragraph (1)(a) applies), the product obtained when,

(i) where the policy is not a deposit administration fund policy and the particular time is immediately after the death of any person on whose life the life insurance policy is issued or effected, the aggregate of the maximum amounts that could be determined by the life insurer immediately before the death in respect of the policy under paragraph 1401(1)(c) and subparagraph 1401(1)(d)(i) if the mortality rates used were adjusted to reflect the assumption that the death would occur at the time and in the manner that it did occur, and

(ii) in any other case, the maximum amount that could be determined at that particular time by the life insurer under paragraph 1401(1)(a), computed as though there were only one deposit administration fund policy, or under paragraph 1401(1)(c), as the case may be, in respect of the policy is multiplied by

(iii) the taxpayer's proportionate interest in the policy, assuming for the purposes of this paragraph that the life insurer carried on its life insurance business in Canada, its taxation year ended at the particular time and the policy was a life insurance policy in Canada; and

(c) in respect of an exemption test policy,

(i) where the policy was issued at least 20 years before the particular time, the amount that would be determined at that particular time by the life insurer under clause 1401(1)(c)(ii)(A) in respect of the policy if the insurer's taxation year ended at that particular time, and

(ii) in any other case, the product obtained when the amount that would be determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of the policy on its twentieth policy anniversary is multiplied by the quotient obtained when the number of years since the policy was issued is divided by 20.

History: S. 307(1) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), when computing the accumulating fund of an interest described in

(a) paragraph (1)(a), the amounts determined under clauses (1)(a)(ii)(A) and (B) shall be computed using,

(i) where an interest rate for a period used by the issuer when the contract was issued in determining the terms of the contract was less than any rate so used for a subsequent period, the single rate that would, if it applied for each period, have produced the same terms, and

(ii) in any other case, the rates used by the issuer when the contract was issued in determining the terms of the contract;

(b) paragraph (1)(b), where an interest rate used for a period by a life insurer in computing the relevant amounts in paragraph 1403(1)(a) or (b) is determined under paragraph 1403(1)(c), (d) or (e), as the case may be, and that rate is less than an interest rate so determined for a subsequent period, the single rate that could, if it applied for each period, have been used in determining the premiums for the policy shall be used; and

(c) paragraph (1)(c),

(i) the rates of interest and mortality used and the age of the person whose life is insured shall be the same as those used in computing the amounts described in paragraph 1403(1)(a) or (b) in respect of the life insurance policy in respect of which the exemption test policy was issued except that

(A) where the life insurance policy is one to which paragraph 1403(1)(e) applies and the amount determined under subparagraph 1401(1)(c)(i) in respect of that policy is greater than the amount determined under subparagraph 1401(1)(c)(ii) in respect thereof, the rates of interest and mortality used may be those used in computing the cash surrender values of that policy, and

(B) where an interest rate for a period otherwise determined under this subparagraph in respect of that interest is less than an interest rate so determined for a subsequent period, the single rate that could, if it applied for each period, have been used in determining the premiums for the life insurance policy shall be used, and

(ii) notwithstanding subparagraph (i),

(A) where the rates referred to in subparagraph (i) do not exist, the minimum guaranteed rates of interest used under the life insurance policy to determine cash surrender values and the rates of mortality under the Commissioners 1958 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, as published in Volume X of the Transactions of the Society of Actuaries, relevant to the person whose life is insured under the life insurance policy shall be used, or

(B) where, in respect of the life insurance policy in respect of which the exemption test policy was issued, the period over which the amount determined under clause 1401(1)(c)(ii)(A) does not extend to the date determined under subparagraph 306(3)(d)(ii), the weighted arithmetic mean of the interest rates used to determine such amount shall be used for the period that is after that period and before that date.

History: S. 307(2)(c)(ii)(B) was amended by P.C. 1991-769, SOR/91-290, dated April 25, 1991, to add commas after "where" and "issued" and to substitute "306(3)(d)(ii)" for "306(2)(d)(ii)", applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

S. 307(2) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(c),

(a) in the case of a life insurance policy issued after April 30, 1985, no rate of interest used for the purpose of determining the accumulating fund in respect of an exemption test policy issued in respect thereof shall be less than 4 per cent per annum; and

(b) in the case of a life insurance policy issued before May 1, 1985, no rate of interest used for the purpose of determining the accumulating fund in respect of an exemption test policy issued in respect thereof shall be less than 3 per cent per annum.

(a) where on the date of issue of an exemption test policy the person whose life is insured has attained the age of 75 years, the references in paragraph (1)(c) to "20" and "twentieth" shall be read as references to "10" and "tenth" respectively; and

(b) where on the date of issue of an exemption test policy the person whose life is insured has attained the age of 66 years but not the age of 75 years, the references in paragraph (1)(c) to "20" and "twentieth" shall be read as references to

(i) the number obtained when the number of years by which the age of the person whose life is insured exceeds 65 years is subtracted from 20, and

(ii) the adjectival form of the number obtained by performing the computation described in subparagraph (i), respectively.

History: S. 307(4) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

(a) without regard to section 1402;

(b) as if each reference therein to the term "policy loan" were read as if that term had the meaning assigned by paragraph 148(9)(e) [subsection 148(9) "policy loan"] of the Act; and

(c) as if clauses 1401(1)(c)(i)(B) and 1401(1)(c)(ii)(C) were read without reference to the expression "or the interest thereon that has accrued to the insurer at the end of the year".

Net Cost of Pure Insurance and Mortality Gains and Losses

308. (1) For the purposes of subparagraph 20(1)(e.2)(ii) and paragraph (a) of the description of L in the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsection 148(9) of the Act, the net cost of pure insurance for a year in respect of a taxpayer's interest in a life insurance policy is the product obtained when the probability, computed on the basis of the rates of mortality under the 1969-75 mortality tables of the Canadian Institute of Actuaries published in Volume XVI of the proceedings of the Canadian Institute of Actuaries or on the basis described in subsection (1.1), that a person who has the same relevant characteristics as the person whose life is insured will die in the year is multiplied by the amount by which

(a) the benefit on death in respect of the taxpayer's interest at the end of the year

(b) the accumulating fund (determined without regard to any policy loan outstanding) in respect of the taxpayer's interest in the policy at the end of the year or the cash surrender value of such interest at the end of the year, depending on the method regularly followed by the life insurer in computing net cost of pure insurance.

History: S. 308(1), the part preceding paragraph (a), was amended by P.C. 1994-940, SOR/94-415, dated June 2, 1994 and applicable to years ending after 1989, except that for taxation years that ended before December 1991, the reference in subsection 308(1) to "subparagraph 20(1)(e.2)(ii) and paragraph (a) of the description of L in the definition 'adjusted cost basis' in subsection 148(9)" shall be read as "subparagraphs 20(1)(e.2)(ii) and 148(9)(a)(ix)". That part formerly read:

"(1) For the purposes of subparagraph 148(9)(a)(ix) of the Act, the net cost of pure insurance for a year in respect of a taxpayer's interest in a life insurance policy is the product obtained when the probability, computed on the basis of the rates of mortality under the 1969-75 mortality tables of the Canadian Institute of Actuaries published in Volume XVI of the Proceedings of the Canadian Institute of Actuaries or on the basis described in subsection (1.1), that a person who has the same relevant characteristics as the person whose life is insured will die in the year is multiplied by the amount by which"

S. 308(1), the part preceding paragraph (a), was amended by P.C. 1991-769, SOR/91-290, dated April 25, 1991, applicable to the 1986 and subsequent taxation years. That part formerly read:

"(1) For the purposes of subparagraph 148(9)(a)(ix) of the Act, the net cost of pure insurance for a year in respect of a taxpayer's interest in a life insurance policy is the product obtained when the probability, computed on the basis of the mortality table referred to in clause 307(2)(c)(ii)(A), that a person who is the same age as the person whose life is insured will die in the year is multiplied by the amount by which"

S. 82(4) of S.C. 1983-84, c. 1 reads as follows: "It is hereby declared that section 308 of the Income Tax Regulations made by Order in Council P.C. 1983-3530 of November 17, 1983 is deemed to have been validly made on that date, with effect as provided in section 8 of the schedule to that Order, as if paragraph 148(9)(a) of the said Act, as amended by subsections (1) to (3), had been in force on that date".

S. 308(1) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after May 31, 1985.

Interpretation Bulletins: Secondary — IT-309R2 Premiums on life insurance used as collateral.

(1.1) Where premiums for a particular class of life insurance policy offered by a life insurer do not depend directly on smoking or sex classification, the probability referred to in subsection (1) may be determined using rates of mortality otherwise determined provided that for each age for such class of life insurance policy, the expected value of the aggregate net cost of pure insurance, calculated using such rates of mortality, is equal to the expected value of the aggregate net cost of pure insurance, calculated using the rates of mortality under the 1969-75 mortality tables of the Canadian Institute of Actuaries published in Volume XVI of the Proceedings of the Canadian Institute of Actuaries.

History: S. 308(1.1) was added by P.C. 1991-769, SOR/91-290, dated April 25, 1991, applicable to the 1986 and subsequent taxation years.

(2) Subject to subsection (4), for the purposes of this section and subparagraph 148(9)(a)(v.1) [subsection 148(9) "adjusted cost basis", item G] of the Act, a "mortality gain" immediately before the end of any calendar year after 1982 in respect of a taxpayer's interest in a life annuity contract means such reasonable amount in respect of his interest therein at that time that the life insurer determines to be the increase to the accumulating fund in respect of the interest that occurred during that year as a consequence of the survival to the end of the year of one or more of the annuitants thereunder.

History: S. 308(2) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

(3) Subject to subsection (4), for the purposes of this section and subparagraph 148(9)(a)(xi) [subsection 148(9) "adjusted cost basis", item L(c)] of the Act, a "mortality loss" immediately before a particular time after 1982 in respect of an interest in a life annuity contract disposed of immediately after that particular time as a consequence of the death of an annuitant thereunder means such reasonable amount that the life insurer determines to be the decrease, as a consequence of the death, in the accumulating fund in respect of the interest assuming that, in determining such decrease, the accumulating fund immediately after the death is determined in the manner described in subparagraph 307(1)(b)(i).

History: S. 308(3) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

(4) In determining an amount for a year in respect of an interest in a life annuity contract under subsection (2) or (3), the expected value of the mortality gains in respect of the interest for the year shall be equal to the expected value of the mortality losses in respect of the interest for the year and the mortality rates for the year used in computing those expected values shall be those that would be relevant to the interest and that are specified under such of paragraphs 1403(1)(c), (d) and (e) as are applicable.

History: S. 308(4) was added by P.C. 1983-3530, SOR/83-865, dated November 18, 1983, applicable to taxation years commencing after 1982.

Prescribed Premiums and Prescribed Increases

309. (1) For the purposes of subsections 12.2(9) and 89(2) of the Act, section 306 and this section, a premium at any time under a life insurance policy is a "prescribed premium" if the total amount of one or more premiums paid at that time under the policy exceeds the amount of premium that, under the policy, was scheduled to be paid at that time and that was fixed and determined on or before

December 1, 1982, adjusted for such of the following transactions and events that have occurred after that date in respect of the policy:

(a) a change in underwriting class;

(b) a change in premium due to a change in frequency of premium payments within a year that does not alter the present value, at the beginning of the year, of the total premiums to be paid under the policy in the year;

(c) an addition or deletion of accidental death or guaranteed purchase option benefits or disability benefits that provide for annuity payments or waiver of premiums;

(d) a premium adjustment as a result of interest, mortality or expense considerations, or of a change in the benefit on death under the policy relating to an increase in the Consumer Price Index (as published by Statistics Canada under the authority of the Statistics Act) where such adjustment

(i) is made by the life insurer on a class basis pursuant to the policy's terms as they read on December 1, 1982, and

(ii) is not made as a result of the exercise of a conversion privilege under the policy;

(e) a change arising from the provision of an additional benefit on death under a participating life insurance policy (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 138(12)(k) [subsection 138(12) "participating life insurance policy"] of the Act) as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of

(i) policy dividends or other distributions of the life insurer's income from its participating life insurance business as determined under section 2402, or

(ii) interest earned on policy dividends that are held on deposit by the life insurer;

(f) redating lapsed policies within the reinstatement period referred to in subparagraph 148(9)(c)(vi) [subsection 148(9) "disposition", paragraph (g] of the Act or redating for policy loan indebtedness;

(g) a change in premium due to a correction of erroneous information contained in the application for the policy;

(h) payment of a premium after its due date, or payment of a premium no more than 30 days before its due date, as established on or before December 1, 1982; and

(i) the payment of an amount described in subparagraph 148(9)(e.1)(i) [subsection 148(9) "premium", paragraph (a)] of the Act.

(2) For the purposes of subsections 12.2(9) and 89(2) of the Act, a "prescribed increase" in a benefit on death under a life insurance policy has occurred at any time where the amount of the benefit on death under the policy at that time exceeds the amount of the benefit on death at that time under the policy that was fixed and determined on or before December 1, 1982, adjusted for such of the following transactions and events that have occurred after that date in respect of the policy:

(a) an increase resulting from a change described in paragraph (1)(e);

(b) a change as a result of interest, mortality or expense considerations, or an increase in the Consumer Price Index (as published by Statistics Canada under the authority of the Statistics Act) where such change is made by the life insurer on a class basis pursuant to the policy's terms as they read on December 1, 1982;

(c) an increase in consequence of the prepayment of premiums (other than prescribed premiums) under the policy where such increase does not exceed the aggregate of the premiums that would otherwise have been paid;

(d) an increase in respect of a policy for which

(i) the benefit on death was, at December 1, 1982, a specific mathematical function of the policy's cash surrender value or factors including the policy's cash surrender value, and

(ii) that function has not changed since that date, unless any part of such increase is attributable to a prescribed premium paid in respect of a policy or to income earned on such a premium; and (e) an increase that is granted by the life insurer on a class basis without consideration and not pursuant to any term of the contract.

Explanatory Note:

Regulatory Impact Analysis Statement from February 15, 2003

A corporation that has taxable income earned in a province is eligible for a 10 percent federal tax abatement under section 124 of the Act, and Part IV of the Regulations prescribes the meaning of "taxable income earned in a province."

Former subsection 404(1) of the Regulations prescribes the taxable income earned in a province for chartered banks. This amendment changes the reference from "chartered bank" to

"bank" to reflect the fact that for the purpose of the Act a "bank" now includes an authorized foreign bank or a bank within the meaning assigned by the Bank Act.

(a) that proportion of its taxable income for the year that the aggregate of the salaries and wages paid in the year by the bank to employees of its permanent establishment in the province is of the aggregate of all salaries and wages paid in the year by the bank; and

(b) twice that proportion of its taxable income for the year that the aggregate amount of loans and deposits of its permanent establishment in the province for the year is of the aggregate amount of all loans and deposits of the bank for the year.

History: S. 404(1) was amended by P.C. 1980-3346, SOR/80-949, dated December 11, 1980 and effective in respect of taxation years of corporations commencing after 1980, in the following manner: (1) in that part of s. 404(1) preceding paragraph (a), by replacing "earned in a taxation year in a particular province by a chartered bank" with "earned by a chartered bank in a taxation year in a province in which it had a permanent establishment"; (2) in s. 402(1)(a), by replacing "the personnel" with "employees"; and (3) in s. 402(1)(b), by adding "amount" after the second appearance of "aggregate".

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), the amount of loans for a taxation year is 1/12 of the aggregate of the amounts outstanding, on the loans made by the bank, at the close of business on the last day of each month in the year.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (1), the amount of deposits for a taxation year is 1/12 of the aggregate of the amounts on deposit with the bank at the close of business on the last day of each month in the year.

(4) For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), loans and deposits do not include bonds, stocks, debentures, items in transit and deposits in favour of Her Majesty in right of Canada.

Trust and Loan Corporations

405. (1) Notwithstanding subsections 402(3) and (4), the amount of taxable income that shall be deemed to have been earned in a taxation year by a trust and loan corporation, trust corporation or loan corporation in a province in which it had a permanent establishment is that proportion of its taxable income for the year that the gross revenue for the year of its permanent establishment in the province is of the total gross revenue for the year of the corporation.

History: S. 405(1) was amended by P.C. 1980-3346, SOR/80-949, dated December 11, 1980 and effective in respect of taxation years of corporations commencing after 1980. S. 405(1) formerly read:

"(1) Notwithstanding subsections 402(3) and (4), the amount of taxable income that shall be deemed to have been earned in a taxation year in a particular province by a trust and loan corporation, trust corporation or loan corporation is that proportion of its taxable income for the year that the gross revenue of its permanent establishment in the province for the year is of the total gross revenue for the year of the corporation."

(2) In subsection (1), "gross revenue for the year of its permanent establishment in the province" means the aggregate of the gross revenue of the corporation for the year arising from

(a) loans secured by lands situated in the province;

(b) loans, not secured by land, to persons residing in the province;

(c) loans

(i) to persons residing in a province or country other than Canada in which the corporation has no permanent establishment, and

(ii) administered by a permanent establishment in the province, except loans secured by land situated in a province or country other than Canada in which the corporation has a permanent establishment; and (d) business conducted at the permanent establishment in the province, other than revenue in respect of loans.

History: S. 405(2) was amended by P.C. 1980-3346, SOR/80-949, dated December 11, 1980 and effective in respect of taxation years commencing after 1980, in the following manner: (1) in that part of s. 405(2) preceding paragraph (a), by replacing "gross revenue of its permanent establishment in the province for a taxation year" with "gross revenue for the year of its permanent establishment in the province", (2) in s. 405(2)(c)(ii), by replacing "the permanent establishment" with "a permanent establishment"; and (3) in s. 405(2)(d), by adding "in the province" after "permanent establishment".

(2) Where a corporation to which subsection (1) would apply, if this subsection did not apply thereto, operates an airline service, ships or hotels or receives substantial revenues that are petroleum or natural gas royalties, or does a combination of two or more of those things, the amount of its taxable income that shall be deemed to have been earned in a taxation year in a province in which it had a permanent establishment is the aggregate of the amounts computed

(a) by applying the provisions of section 407 to that part of its taxable income for the year that may reasonably be considered to have arisen from the operation of the airline service;

(b) by applying the provisions of section 410 to that part of its taxable income for the year that may reasonably be considered to have arisen from the operation of the ships;

(c) by applying the provisions of section 402 to that part of its taxable income for the year that may reasonably be considered to have arisen from the operation of the hotels;

(a) the number of miles of first main track,

(b) 80 per cent of the number of miles of other main tracks, and

(c) 50 per cent of the number of miles of yard tracks and sidings, in that place.

(4) For the purpose of making an allocation under paragraph (2)(b), a reference in section 410 to "salaries and wages paid in the year by the corporation to employees" shall be read as a reference to salaries and wages paid by the corporation to employees employed in the operation of permanent establishments (other than ships) maintained for the shipping business.

(5) For the purpose of making an allocation under paragraph (2)(c),

(a) a reference in section 402 to "gross revenue for the year reasonably attributable to the permanent establishment in the province" shall be read as a reference to the gross revenue of the taxpayer from operating hotels therein;

Regulations

PART VIII
Non-Resident Taxes

Registered Non-Resident Insurers

800. For the purposes of subsection 215(4) of the Act, subsections 215(1), (2) and (3) of the Act do not apply to amounts paid or credited to a registered non-resident insurer.

Pending Amendment

Foreign Bank Branches — February 15, 2003
(Pre-published in the Canada Gazette, Part I, dated February 15, 2003)

The heading before section 800 and [section 800] of the Regulations are replaced by the following:

Authorized Foreign Banks and Non-Resident Insurers

800. Subsections 215(1), (2) and (3) of the Act do not apply to amounts paid or credited to an authorized foreign bank or to a registered non-resident insurer.

Applicable: To taxation years that end after June 27, 1999.

Explanatory Note:

Regulatory Impact Analysis Statement from February 15, 2003

Sections 800 to 803 of the Regulations currently exempt a resident payer from the withholding responsibility imposed under Part XIII of the Act on payments made to a registered non-resident insurer. Also, these sections outline the compliance rules applicable to a registered non-resident insurer. These sections are amended to apply to an authorized foreign bank as well.

Explanatory Notes from December 20, 2002

Section 800 of the Regulations provides that amounts paid or credited to a registered non-resident insurer are not subject to the withholding obligations set out in subsections 215(1), (2) and (3) of the Act. The section is to be amended to apply as well to amounts paid or credited to an authorized foreign bank, and to update its structure.

This amendment is to apply to payments made in taxation years that end after June 27, 1999.

Section 801 of the Regulations requires a non-resident insurer to file a return in respect of tax payable by it under Part XIII of the Act. The section is to be amended to apply the same requirement to an authorized foreign bank.

This amendment is to apply to taxation years that end after June 27, 1999, except that the return required to be filed by an authorized foreign bank is deemed to have been filed with the Minister of National Revenue in a timely manner if it is filed on or before the later of

- the day on or before which it would otherwise be required to be filed (that is, the bank's filing-due date for the taxation year in question); and
- the day that is 6 months after the day on which this Regulation is registered.

Section 802 of the Regulations ensures that Parts I and XIII of the Act do not overlap in respect of a registered non-resident insurers income from carrying on business in Canada. In general terms, the section provides that, to the extent such income is dealt with by Part I, it is not subject to taxation under Part XIII. In its current form, section 802 is not clearly confined to registered non-resident insurers. As a result, its relationship to section 805, which deals with the same subject in respect of other taxpayers, is also unclear.

Section 802 is to be amended to clarify its application, and to provide that it applies as well to authorized foreign banks. This amendment is to apply to taxation years that end after June 27, 1999.

Section 803 of the Regulations provides that a registered non-resident insurer must pay its Part XIII tax owing in respect of a taxation year on or before the day on which its return under Regulation 801 in respect of the year is due. The section is to be amended to clarify its scope and meaning, and to provide that it is to apply as well to authorized foreign banks. This amendment is to apply to taxation years that end after June 27, 1999.

History: S. 800 was amended by P.C. 1979-1485, SOR/79-424, dated May 22, 1979, effective in respect of the 1978 and subsequent taxation years.

Filing of Returns by Non-Resident Insurers

801. For the purposes of subsection 215(4) of the Act, where a taxpayer is a registered non-resident insurer in a taxation year, the taxpayer shall file a return in respect thereof in prescribed form with the Minister within the six month period immediately following the end of the year.

Pending Amendment

Foreign Bank Branches — February 15, 2003 (Pre-published in the Canada Gazette, Part I, dated February 15, 2003)

[Section 801 is] replaced by the following:

801. A taxpayer that is an authorized foreign bank or a registered non-resident insurer at any time in a taxation year shall file a return in respect of the year in prescribed form with the Minister on or before its filing-due date for the year.

Applicable: To taxation years that end after June 27, 1999, except that the return required to be filed under section 801 of the Income Tax Regulations, as amended, by an authorized foreign bank is deemed to have been filed with the Minister of National Revenue in a timely manner if it is so filed on or before the later of

(a) the day on or before which it would, but for this subsection, be required to be filed, and

(b) the day that is six months after the day on which these Regulations are registered.

Explanatory Note: [Please see the Regulatory Impact Analysis Statement and Explanatory Note following the amendment to section 800.]

History: S. 801 was amended by P.C. 1990-2002, SOR/90-661, dated September 20, 1990, to delete "(in the Part referred to as a 'relevant taxation year')" following "taxation year", and to substitute "within the six month period immediately following the end of the year" for "on or before April 30 in the year immediately following the calendar year in which the relevant taxation year ended", applicable in respect of taxation years beginning after June 17, 1987 and ending after 1987.

S. 801 was amended by P.C. 1979-1485, SOR/79-424, May 22, 1979, effective in respect of the 1978 and subsequent taxation years.

Pending Amendment

Foreign Bank Branches — February 15, 2003 (Pre-published in the Canada Gazette, Part I, dated February 15, 2003)

Pending Amendment

[Section 803 is] replaced by the following:

803. Authorized foreign banks and registered non-resident insurers shall pay to the Receiver General, on or before their filing-due dates for a taxation year, the tax payable by them under Part XIII of the Act.

Applicable: To taxation years that end after June 27, 1999.

History: S. 803 was amended by P.C. 1979-1485, SOR/79-424, dated May 22, 1979, effective in respect of the 1978 and subsequent taxation years.

Interpretation

804. In this Part, "registered non-resident insurer" means a non-resident corporation approved to carry on business in Canada under the Insurance Companies Act.

History: S. 804 was amended by P.C. 2000-1714, SOR/2000-413, dated November 30, 2000, applicable after May 1992. S. 804 formerly read:

"S. 804. In this Part, 'registered non resident insurer' means a non-resident corporation registered to carry on business in Canada under Part VIII of the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act or under the Foreign Insurance Companies Act."

S. 804 was amended by P.C. 1979-1485, SOR/79-424, dated May 22, 1979, effective in respect of the 1978 and subsequent taxation years.

Other Non-Resident Persons

805. (1) Every non-resident person who carries on business in Canada shall be taxable under Part XIII of the Act on all amounts otherwise taxable under that Part except those amounts that

(a) may reasonably be attributed to the business carried on by him through a permanent establishment (within the meaning assigned by subsection 400(2) or that would be assigned by that subsection if he were a corporation) in Canada; or

(b) are required by subparagraph 115(1)(a)(iii.3) of the Act to be included in computing his taxable income earned in the year in Canada.

(2) Where the Minister is satisfied that under subsection (1) an amount is not taxable under Part XIII of the Act, he may permit payment to be made to the non-resident person without any deduction being made under section 215 of the Act.

(3) Subsections (1) and (2) do not apply in respect of amounts upon which tax under Part XIII of the Act is payable in a relevant taxation year by a taxpayer required by section 801 to file the return described in that section in respect of that year.

Pending Amendment

Foreign Bank Branches — February 15, 2003 (Pre-published in the Canada Gazette, Part I, dated February 15, 2003)

Section 805 of the Regulations is replaced by the following:

805. Subject to section 802, every non-resident person who carries on business in Canada is taxable under Part XIII of the Act on all amounts otherwise taxable under that Part except those amounts that

(b) are required by subparagraph 115(1)(a)(iii.3) of the Act to be included in computing the person's taxable income earned in Canada for the year.

Applicable: To taxation years that end after June 27, 1999.

Explanatory Note:

Explanatory Notes from December 20, 2002

Section 805 of the Regulations provides rules for determining whether an amount is taxable under Part XIII of the Act, in a case where the non-resident recipient of the amount carries on a business in Canada. In general terms, the section provides that an amount paid to a non-resident is taxable under Part XIII of the Act if that amount cannot reasonably be attributed to a business carried on by the non-resident through a permanent establishment in Canada.

Section 805 is to be amended to update its structure and language, and to clarify its relationship to section 802 of the Regulations — in effect, that section 805 is not applicable to authorized foreign banks and registered non-resident insurers.

This amendment is to apply to taxation years that end after June 27, 1999.

History: S. 805(1)(a) was amended by P.C. 1988-390, SOR/88-165, dated March 3, 1988 and effective March 16, 1988. S. 805(1)(a) formerly read:

Branch Tax

Part XIV of the Act imposes a tax on non-resident corporations carrying on a business in Canada through a branch. The purpose of this tax is to put those non-resident corporations in a similar position for Canadian tax purposes as non-residents who carry on business in Canada through a Canadian subsidiary.

Branch tax is levied at a flat rate of 25 percent on a non-resident corporation's taxable income from Canadian sources, with certain adjustments, including an allowance for its investment in property in Canada. A corporation's allowance for investment in property in Canada is computed under section 808 of the Regulations.

Paragraphs 808(2)(h) and (p), subparagraphs 808(2)(l)(i), (n)(ii) and (iii), and (o)(ii) and (iii) of the Regulations are amended to reflect earlier amendments to Part XIV of the Act.

Subsection 808(1) of the Regulations computes the allowance for investment in property for all non-resident corporations. This subsection is amended to specifically exclude authorized foreign bank from these computational rules, and new subsection 808(8) of the Regulations is added to compute the allowance for investment in property in Canada for an authorized foreign bank.

A non-resident corporation's allowance for investment in property in Canada is computed on the basis of its "qualified investment in property in Canada." "Qualified investment in property in Canada" includes a corporation's "allowable liquid assets" and its share of the "allowable liquid assets" of a partnership of which the corporation is a member. The amendment to paragraph 808(6)(a) of the Regulations clarifies that the allowable liquid assets of a partnership do not include amounts that were not either generated by or intended for the use of its business carried on in Canada.

Paragraphs 808(2)(d) to (d.2), subparagraphs 808(2)(l)(ii) and 808(5)(j)(ii) of the Regulations generally refer to rules applicable to resource property in the computation of the "qualified investment in property in Canada." These paragraphs are revised as the miscellaneous program amendments of the Department of Finance.

(a) the corporation's qualified investment in property in Canada at the end of the year,

(b) the aggregate of

(i) all allowances computed under this section as it read in its application to each of the taxation years of the corporation that ended before 1972 to the extent that for those taxation years such allowances reduced the amount on which the corporation was taxable under subsection 110B(1) of the Act as it read in its application to those taxation years, and

(ii) the capital investment of the corporation in property in Canada at the end of the corporation's 1960 taxation year, determined under this section as it read in its application to the 1961 taxation year.

Branch Tax — Corporate Immigration — October 27, 1998

Section 808 of the Income Tax Regulations is amended by adding the following after subsection (1):

(1.1) Notwithstanding subsection (1), if a corporation becomes resident in Canada at a particular time, the corporation's allowance in respect of its investment in property in Canada for its last taxation year that ended before the particular time is prescribed to be nil.

Applicable: To corporations that become resident in Canada after February 23, 1998.

Explanatory Note: Subsection 808(1) of the Regulations specifies the amount of a corporation's allowance in respect of investment in property in Canada for the purposes of the "branch tax" imposed under Part XIV of the Act.

New subsection 808(1.1) provides that where a corporation becomes resident in Canada, the corporation's investment allowance for the taxation year that is deemed to end immediately before immigration is nil. Since the corporation will be unable to claim an investment allowance, it will be liable to pay branch tax on any unremitted profits of a Canadian branch arising in the year or deferred in respect of previous years. Effectively, for an immigrating corporation, unremitted profits of a Canadian branch are treated similarly to the undistributed surplus of a Canadian corporation in which the immigrating corporation holds shares, which is deemed to be distributed as a dividend by paragraph 128.1(1)(c.1) of the Act.

New subsection 808(1.1) applies to corporations that become resident in Canada after February 23, 1998.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), where, at the end of a taxation year, a corporation is not a member of a partnership that was carrying on business in Canada at any time in the year, the corporation's "qualified investment in property in Canada at the end of the year" is the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of

(a) the cost amount to the corporation, at the end of the year, of land in Canada owned by it at that time for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business carried on by it in Canada, other than land that is

(ii) depreciable property,

(iii) a Canadian resource property, or

(iv) land the cost of which is or was deductible in computing the corporation's income,

(b) an amount equal to the aggregate of the cost amount to the corporation, immediately after the end of the year, of each depreciable property in Canada owned by it for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business carried on by it in Canada,

(c) an amount equal to 4/3 of the cumulative eligible capital of the corporation immediately after the end of the year in respect of each business carried on by it in Canada,

(d) where the corporation is not a principal-business corporation, within the meaning assigned by paragraph 66(15)(h) [subsection 66(15) "principal-business corporation"] of the Act, an amount equal to the aggregate of the corporation's

(i) Canadian exploration and development expenses, within the meaning assigned by paragraph 66(15)(b) [subsection 66(15) "Canadian exploration and development expenses"] of the Act, incurred by the corporation before the end of the year except to the extent that such expenses were deducted by the corporation in computing its income for the year or for a previous taxation year, and

(ii) cumulative Canadian exploration expense, within the meaning assigned by paragraph 66.1(6)(b) [subsection 66.1(6) "cumulative Canadian exploration expense"] of the Act, at the end of the year minus any deduction under subsection 66.1(3) of the Act in computing the corporation's income for the year,

(d.1) an amount equal to the corporation's cumulative Canadian development expense, within the meaning assigned by paragraph 66.2(5)(b) [subsection 66.2(5) "cumulative Canadian development expense"] of the Act, at the end of the year minus any deduction under subsection 66.2(2) of the Act in computing the corporation's income for the year,

(d.2) an amount equal to the corporation's cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense, within the meaning assigned by paragraph 66.4(5)(b) [subsection 66.4(5) "cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense"] of the Act, at the end of the year minus any deduction under subsection 66.4(2) of the Act in computing the corporation's income for the year,

(3) Where a payee has filed with the Minister a written notice indicating that certain information or estimates in the payee's required statement for the year are incorrect and setting out the correct information or estimates that should be substituted therefor or where the Minister is satisfied that certain information or estimates in a payee's required statement for the year are incorrect and that the Minister has the correct information or estimates that should be substituted therefor, for the purposes of making the calculations in subsection (1) with respect to any qualifying payment paid or credited to the payee after the time when he has filed that notice or after the time when the Minister is so satisfied, as the case may be, the incorrect information or estimates shall be disregarded and the required statement for the year shall be deemed to contain only the correct information or estimates.

(4) In this section,

"qualifying payment" in relation to a non-resident person means any amount

(a) paid or credited, or to be paid or credited, to him as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, any amount described in paragraph 212(1)(f) or (h) or in any of paragraphs 212(1)(j), (k), (l), (m) or (q) of the Act, and

(b) on which tax under Part XIII of the Act is, or would be, but for an election by him under section 217 of the Act, payable by him;

"required statement" of a payee for a taxation year means a written statement signed by him that contains, in respect of the payee,

(a) the name and address of each payer of a qualifying payment in the year and, in respect of each such payer, an estimate by the payee of the aggregate of such qualifying payments, and

Federal Budget Extract

Accelerated Capital Cost Allowance for Oil Sands

[The March 19, 2007 Federal Budget proposed a phasing out of the accelerated CCA for assets used in oil sands projects. The extract below from the 2007 Budget papers outlines these proposed changes.]

Currently, most machinery, equipment and structures used to produce income from a mine or an oil sands project, including buildings and community infrastructure related to worker accommodations, are eligible for a capital cost allowance (CCA) rate of 25 per cent under Class 41 of Schedule II to the Income Tax Regulations. This rate also applies to assets owned by a mineral resource owner that are used in the initial processing of ore from the mineral resource or in upgrading of bitumen (the oil sands product) from that mineral resource into synthetic crude oil.

In addition to the regular CCA deduction, an accelerated CCA has been provided since 1972 for assets acquired for use in new mines, including oil sands mines, as well as assets acquired for major mine expansions (i.e. those that increase the capacity of a mine by at least 25 per cent). In 1996, this accelerated CCA was extended to in-situ oil sands projects (which use oil wells rather than mining techniques to extract bitumen) by deeming them to be mines. This change ensured that both types of oil sands projects are accorded the same CCA treatment. The 1996 changes also extended the accelerated CCA to expenditures on eligible assets acquired in a taxation year for use in a mine or oil sands project, to the extent that the cost of those assets exceeds 5 per cent of the gross revenue for the year from the mine or project.

The accelerated CCA takes the form of an additional allowance that supplements the regular CCA claim. Once an asset is available for use, the taxpayer is entitled to deduct CCA at the regular rate. The additional allowance allows the taxpayer to deduct in computing income for a taxation year up to 100 per cent of the remaining cost of the eligible assets, not exceeding the taxpayer's income for the year from the project (calculated after deducting the regular CCA). This accelerated CCA provides a financial benefit by effectively deferring taxation until the cost of capital assets has been recovered out of project earnings.

Budget 2007 proposes to phase out the accelerated CCA for oil sands projects — both mining and in-situ. The regular 25-per-cent CCA rate will remain in place.

To the extent that the accelerated CCA for oil sands projects induces incremental oil sands development that could contribute to environmental impacts, such as greenhouse gas emissions, air and water contaminants, water usage, and disturbance of natural habitats and wildlife, these changes could help reduce such incremental impacts.

To provide stability, and in recognition of the long time lines involved in some oil sands projects, the following transitional relief will be provided:

- the accelerated CCA will continue to be available in full for:
  - assets acquired before March 19, 2007, and
  - assets acquired before 2012 that are part of a project phase on which major construction began before March 19, 2007; and
- for other assets, the additional accelerated allowance will be gradually phased down over the period from 2011 to 2015 (when it will be eliminated), according to the schedule set out below.

Phase-Out Schedule

For assets that do not qualify for the full retention of the accelerated CCA as outlined above, the availability of the additional allowance will be gradually phased out in respect of claims made over the period from 2011 to 2015. In each year, a taxpayer will be permitted to claim a percentage of the amount of the additional allowance otherwise calculated under the existing rules. The percentage allowed will decline each calendar year, as follows (prorated for off-calendar taxation years):

Year	Allowable Percentage of Additional Allowance
2010	100
2011	90
2012	80
2013	60
2014	30

(1.12) Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (1.1), where, in a taxation year, a taxpayer has acquired a property that was not used by the taxpayer for any purpose in that year and the first use of the property by the taxpayer is a lease of the property in respect of which subsection (1.1) applies, the amount allowed to the taxpayer under subsection (1) in respect of the property for the year shall be deemed to be nil.

Pending Amendment

Technical Amendments — November 9, 2006

[The explanatory notes for the amendments for subsections 13(4.2) and (4.3) of the Act contained in the Technical Amendments re-released on November 9, 2006 (Part 2 of former Bill C-10)] proposed that section 1101 of the Regulations be amended, applicable after December 20, 2002, by adding the following after subsection (1af):

(1ag) If more than one property of a taxpayer is described in the same class in Schedule II, and one or more of the properties is a property in respect of which the taxpayer is a transferee that has elected under subsection 13(4.2) of the Act, a separate class is prescribed for each such property of the taxpayer that would otherwise be included in the same class.

Applicable: After December 20, 2002.

Explanatory Note: There may be circumstances where, but for an election under subsection 13(4.2), a portion of the consideration given by a transferee upon the sale of a limited period franchise, license or concession might reasonably be considered to be an eligible capital amount to the transferor and an eligible capital expenditure to the transferee. For instance, a portion of the consideration may reasonably relate to the preferred status that the transferee may receive in obtaining a new property at the end of the term. Where an election under subsection 13(4.2) is made, subsection 13(4.3) provides that such an amount will be neither an eligible capital amount to the transferor, nor an eligible capital expenditure to the transferee, but will instead be included in the cost to the transferee and proceeds of disposition of the transferor of the former property.

In this regard, it is also proposed that section 1101 of the Regulations be amended, applicable after December 20, 2002, by adding the following after subsection (1af):

(1ag) If more than one property of a taxpayer is described in the same class in Schedule II, and one or more of the properties is a property in respect of which the taxpayer is a transferee that has elected under subsection 13(4.2) of the Act, a separate class is prescribed for each such property of the taxpayer that would otherwise be included in the same class.

If, subsequent to the acquisition of the former property by the transferee, the life of the former property expires and a similar property in respect of the same fixed place is not acquired by the transferee, the transferee may, under subsection 20(16) of the Act, be entitled to a terminal loss in respect of the former property. Refer to the commentary to new paragraph 20(16.1)(b) of the Act regarding limitations in respect of the deduction of such a terminal loss.

(1b) [Revoked.]

(1c) [Revoked.]

(c) are properties included in that segregated fund; and

(d) would otherwise be included in the class.

(1c) Where more than one building of a life insurer is described in the same class in Schedule II and where

(a) one of the buildings is a building at least 80 per cent of which is used regularly in the taxation year by the insurer for the purpose of earning its gross Canadian life investment income, and

(i) the premiums in respect of the policy, and

(ii) the amount of any benefit provided in lieu of a cash settlement on

(A) the termination or maturity of the policy, or

(B) the payment of a dividend on the policy."

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), where a rate of mortality or other probability used by an insurer in determining the premium for a policy is not reasonable in the circumstances, the Minister on the advice of the Superintendent of Insurance for Canada may make such revision to the rate as is reasonable in the circumstances and the revised rate shall be deemed to have been used by the insurer in determining the premium.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (1), where the present value of the premiums for a policy as at the date of issue of the policy is less than the aggregate of

(a) the present value, at that date, of the benefits provided for by the policy, and

(b) the present value, at that date, of all outlays and expenses made or incurred by the insurer or outlays and expenses that the insurer reasonably estimates it will make or incur in respect of the policy (except outlays and expenses to maintain the policy after all premiums under the policy have been paid and for which explicit provision has not been made in calculating the premiums) and such part of any other outlays and expenses made or incurred by the insurer that may reasonably be regarded as applicable thereto, an increased rate of interest shall be determined by multiplying the rate of interest used in determining the premiums by a constant factor so that when the increased rate of interest is used,

(b) the Minister, on the advice of the Superintendent of Insurance for Canada, may

(ii) if the policy was issued after 1977,

(6) Notwithstanding paragraph 1401(1)(c), a life insurer in computing its income for a taxation year may, in respect of any class of life insurance policies issued before its 1988 taxation year, other than policies referred to in paragraph 1401(1)(a) or (b), use a method of approximation to convert the reserve in respect of such policies reported by the insurer in its annual report to the relevant authority for the year to an amount that is a reasonable estimate of the amount that would otherwise be determined for such policies under paragraph 1401(1)(c), provided that that method of approximation is acceptable to the Minister on the advice of the relevant authority.

History: S. 1403(6) was amended by P.C. 1990-2002, SOR/90-661, dated September 20, 1990, applicable in respect of taxation years beginning after June 17, 1987 and ending after 1987. S. 1403 (6) formerly read:

(7) For the purposes of subsection (1) and notwithstanding any other provision of this section, where

(a) an individual annuity contract was issued prior to 1969 by a life insurer, or

(b) a benefit was purchased prior to 1969 under a group annuity contract issued by a life insurer, and the contract

(c) is a policy in respect of which the provisions of paragraph 1401(1)(c) as it read in its application to the insurer's 1977 taxation year applied, the rates of interest and mortality used by the insurer in computing its reserve for the policy under that paragraph for its 1977 taxation year shall be used by the insurer in respect of that policy.

History: Ss. 1403(7)(a) and (b) were amended by P.C. 1980-1484, SOR/80-419, dated June 6, 1980, effective for the 1978 and subsequent taxation years. Ss. 1403(7)(a) and (b) formerly read:

(8) For the purposes of subsection (1), where

(a) in a taxation year of an insurer, there has been a disposition to the insurer by another person with whom the insurer was dealing at arm's length in respect of which subsection 138(11.92) of the Act applied,

(b) as a result of the disposition, the insurer assumed obligations under life insurance policies (in this subsection referred to as the "transferred policies") in respect of which an amount may be claimed by the insurer as a reserve under paragraph 1401(1)(c) for the taxation year,

(c) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the aggregate of all amounts received or receivable by the insurer from the other person in respect of the transferred policies referred to in paragraph (b)

exceeds

(ii) the aggregate of all amounts paid or payable by the insurer to the other person in respect of commissions in respect of the amounts referred to in subparagraph (i)

exceeds the total of the maximum amounts that may be claimed by the insurer as a reserve under paragraph 1401(1)(c) (determined without reference to this subsection) in respect of the transferred policies for the taxation year, and

(d) the amount determined under paragraph (c) (in this subsection referred to as "reserve deficiency") can reasonably be attributed to the fact that the rates of interest or mortality used by the issuer of the transferred policies in determining the cash surrender values or premiums under such policies are no longer reasonable in the circumstances, the Minister, on the request of the insurer and with the advice of the relevant authority, may make such revision to the rates of interest or mortality to eliminate all or any part of that reserve deficiency, and those revised rates shall be deemed to have been used by the issuer of the transferred policies in determining the cash surrender value or premiums under the policies.

Department of Finance Comfort Letter [Determination of Tax Reserves for Life Insurance Policies]

December 1, 1999

Dear XXXX

This is in reply to your letter of November 8, 1999 requesting that amendments be made to the draft income tax legislation released on December 23, 1998 regarding trusts and to the Income Tax Regulations regarding the determination of tax reserves for life insurance policies.

Regulations on Reserves

You are of the view that subsection 1403(8) of the Income Tax Regulations should be amended to allow an insurer that has acquired an insurance business, or a line of an insurance business, from another insurer to revise the lapse rates used by the other insurer for reserve purposes if those rates are no longer reasonable to eliminate all or part of what is referred to in subsection 1403(8) as a reserve deficiency (the "Reserve Deficiency"). From a policy perspective, we agree. Consequently, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subsection 1403(8) be amended to allow for revisions to lapse rates to eliminate all or part of a Reserve Deficiency if the deficiency is attributable to the fact that the lapse rates used by the issuer of the transferred policies are no longer reasonable in the circumstances.

Your second concern in regard to subsection 1403(8) of the Income Tax Regulations is that it provides the Minister of National Revenue with too much discretion in determining whether, and to what extent, rates can be changed to eliminate all or part of a Reserve Deficiency. We agree that subsection 1403(8) may be too broad in this regard. Consequently, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subsection 1403(8) be amended to better ensure that the Ministerial discretion be limited to the approval of adjusted rates provided the adjustments are reasonable.

We would also recommend that the amendments to subsection 1403(8) of the Income Tax Regulations be effective for dispositions occurring after November 1999. If the recommendation is acted upon, it is anticipated that the amendments would be included in a future technical bill.

I appreciate you taking the time to bring your concerns to my attention.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein
Director
Tax Legislation Division
Tax Policy Branch

History: S. 1403(8) was added by P.C. 1990-2002, SOR/90-661, dated September 20, 1990 and applicable in respect of dispositions of an insurance business or a line of business of an insurance business occurring after December 15, 1987.

(3) Notwithstanding the other provisions of this section, in the case of property the cost of which to a partnership has been determined under paragraph 20(5)(a) of the Income Tax Application Rules, 1971, the depreciable cost to the taxpayer of the property for the purposes of this Part shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the cost to the partnership of the particular property as determined under that paragraph.

Personal Use of Property

(4) Where a taxpayer has, in a taxation year, regularly used a property in part for the purpose of gaining or producing income from farming or fishing and in part for a purpose other than gaining or producing income, the depreciable cost to the taxpayer of the property for the purposes of this Part is the proportion of the amount that would otherwise be the depreciable cost that the use regularly made of the property for the purpose of gaining or producing income from farming or fishing is of the whole use regularly made of the property.

Grants, Subsidies or Other Government Assistance

(5) Where a taxpayer has received or is entitled to receive a grant, subsidy or other assistance from a government, municipality or other public authority in respect of or for the acquisition of property, the depreciable cost to the taxpayer of the property for the purposes of this Part is the amount that would otherwise be the depreciable cost minus the amount of the grant, subsidy or other assistance.

Transactions Not at Arm's Length

(a) the actual capital cost of the property to the taxpayer; and

(b) the amount by which the actual capital cost of the property to the original owner exceeds the aggregate of

(i) the total amount of depreciation for the property that, since the commencement of 1917, has been or should have been taken into account in accordance with the practice of the Department of National Revenue in ascertaining the income of the original owner and all intervening owners for the purposes of the Income War Tax Act or in ascertaining a loss for a year when there was no income under that Act,

(ii) any accumulated depreciation reserves that the original owner or an intervening owner had for the property at the commencement of 1917 and that were recognized by the Minister for the purposes of the Income War Tax Act, and

Department of Finance Comfort Letter

[Proposed Amendments to Regulation 2400(6) Re Goodwill Arising from Acquisition or Disposition of Affiliated Financial Institution]

June 30, 2006

Dear XXXX

I am writing in response to your letters concerning your request for a modification to subsection 2400(6) of the Income Tax Regulations ("Regulations")

Under existing subsection 2400(6), certain assets of an insurer are, for the purpose of clause (a)(ii)(B) of the definition "Canadian investment fund" in subsection 2400(1), deemed not to have been used or held by the insurer in the taxation year in the course of carrying on an insurance business. Such assets include goodwill that arose as a result of an amalgamation or a winding-up of an affiliated financial institution or on the assumption by the insurer of certain obligations of another insurer with which the insurer deals at arm's length.

You have recommended that subsection 2400(6) be amended to include a reference to goodwill that arose as a result of an acquisition or disposition of an affiliated financial institution. You are requesting the modification to subsection 2400(6) because the structure of the XXXX is being reorganized and, as part of that reorganization, XXXX has transferred certain foreign insurance and non-insurance subsidiaries to a newly-incorporated Canadian subsidiary of XXXX. As a result of this reorganization, a portion of the goodwill that arose on the arm's length acquisition of a foreign financial institution and that was not, before the reorganization, required by generally accepted accounting principle to be reported on the non-consolidated balance sheet of XXXX is, after the reorganization, required by generally accepted accounting principles to be reported on its balance sheet. In your view, such purchased goodwill arising under the reorganization should, under subsection 2400(6), receive the same treatment as the goodwill arising in the other circumstances set out in that subsection.

We have reviewed your submission and have concluded that the purchased goodwill arising under the reorganization should, under subsection 2400(6), receive the same treatment as the goodwill arising in the other circumstances set out in that subsection. Consequently, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance a modification to subsection 2400(6) that would achieve that result, effective for the 2005 and subsequent taxation years. We cannot, however, offer any assurances that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with our recommendation that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Yours sincerely

Income from Participating Life Insurance Businesses

Section 2402 of the Regulations contains rules for determining a life insurer's income for a year from carrying on its participating life insurance business in Canada. This income is relevant for subparagraph 138(3)(a)(iii) of the Act, which permits an insurer to deduct policy dividends to the extent that the total amount of dividends paid after its 1968 taxation year does not exceed the total amount of its participating business income after that year. Section 2402 is amended to reflect the new rules in the Act for the tax treatment of securities held by financial institutions, and to delete provisions which are no longer applicable.

Paragraph 2402(a.1)

New paragraph 2402(a.1) includes in an insurer's income from its participating business for a taxation year an amount in respect of the transition adjustments for the mark-to-market requirement for shares. The amount included is equal to a proportion of the transition amount for non-capital gains included in the insurer's income for the year by subsection 142.5(5) of the Act, plus the same proportion of the insurer's deemed taxable capital gain for the year under subsection 142.5(7). The ratio used for this purpose is equal to the ratio used under paragraph 2402(a) in determining the proportion of the insurer's gross Canadian life investment income for its taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 that is included in its income from its participating business. Paragraph 2402(a.1) applies to taxation years ending after October 30, 1994.

(b) there shall be included

(i) the amount deducted by the insurer under subparagraph 138(3)(a)(iv) of the Act in computing its income for the immediately preceding taxation year,

(ii) the insurer's maximum tax actuarial reserve for the immediately preceding taxation year in respect of participating life insurance policies in Canada,

(iii) the maximum amount deductible by the insurer under subparagraph 138(3)(a)(ii) of the Act in computing its income for the immediately preceding taxation year in respect of participating life insurance policies in Canada, and

(iv) that proportion of the amount included in income by the insurer for the year under section 12.3 that

(A) the amount determined under clause (f)(iii)(A) for its first taxation year that begins after June 17, 1987 and ends after 1987

is of

(B) the amount determined under clause (f)(iii)(B) for its first taxation year that begins after June 17, 1987 and ends after 1987;

Interpretation

gross Canadian life investment income

The expression "gross Canadian life investment income" is defined for the purpose of section 2402 of the Regulations, which contains rules for determining an insurer's income for a year from carrying on its participating life insurance business in Canada. Several amendments are made to this definition:

- Paragraph (a) is amended to use the newly-defined term "Canadian business property", which is defined in subsection 2405(3). Gross investment revenue from such property held in respect of an insurer's life insurance business is included by paragraph (a) in determining the insurer's gross Canadian life investment income. This amendment applies to taxation years that end after June 1, 1995.
- Paragraph (c) is repealed. This paragraph includes, in determining an insurer's gross Canadian life investment income, the amounts included in the insurer's income by paragraphs 138(4)(b) and (c) of the Act (profit on disposition of a Canada security, and amortization of discount on such a security). This amendment is consequential on the repeal of paragraphs 138(4)(b) and (c).
- Paragraphs (d) and (i), which deal with doubtful debt reserves, are amended as a consequence of the repeal of the definition of "Canada security" in subsection 138(12) of the Act. The amended paragraphs refer to debt obligations that are "Canadian business property" of the insurer in respect of the insurer's life insurance business.
- New paragraph (d.1) includes in an insurer's gross Canadian life investment income the amounts that are included in the insurer's income by section 142.4 of the Act in respect of property disposed of by the insurer that was "Canadian business property" of the insurer in respect of its life insurance business. New paragraph (i.1) is a corresponding rule for deductions. New section 142.4 of the Act contains rules for the measurement and the timing of recognition of gains and losses from the disposition of specified debt obligations.
- Paragraph (e), which includes certain non-capital gains in an insurer's gross Canadian life investment income, is amended to exclude from its scope property in respect of which section 142.4 of the Act applies. Gains from the disposition of this property are taken into account by new paragraph (d.1). Paragraph (e) is also amended, for dispositions of property in taxation years ending after June 1, 1995, to clarify that it applies only to the property of an insurer's Canadian life insurance business. Similar changes are made to the rule in paragraph (j) for certain non-capital losses.
- Paragraph (f), which includes an insurer's taxable capital gains in its gross Canadian life investment income, is amended so that it does not include amounts deemed by subsection 142.5(7) of the Act to be taxable capital gains of the insurer. That subsection contains a transition rule relating to the introduction of the mark-to-market requirement. Paragraph (f) is also amended, for dispositions of property in taxation years ending after June 1, 1995, to clarify that it applies only to the property of an insurer's Canadian life insurance business. Similar changes are made to the rule in paragraph (k) for allowable capital losses.
- Paragraph (g) is repealed since the provision to which it refers — paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Act (investment reserve) — was repealed in the tax reform of 1987.
- Paragraph (h) is repealed. This paragraph deducts in determining an insurer's gross Canadian life investment income the amounts deducted under paragraphs 138(3)(b) and (d) of the Act (loss on disposition of a Canada security, and amortization of premium on such a security) in computing an insurer's income. This amendment is consequential on the repeal of paragraphs 138(3)(b) and (d).

Pending Amendment

Securities Held by Financial Institutions — April 11, 2009 (Pre-published in the Canada Gazette, Part I, dated April 11, 2009)

Section 2405 of the Regulations is amended by adding the following after subsection (4):

(5) For the purposes of subsection (3), the cost of a property shall be determined without regard to subsection 142.5(2) of the Act.

Applicable: To taxation years that end after October 30, 1994 and before 1999.

Explanatory Note:

See the Regulatory Impact Analysis Statement, published in the Canada Gazette, Part I on April 11, 2009, reproduced with the Explanatory Note for Regulation 304(1)(c).

Explanatory Notes Released on June 1, 1995

New subsection 2405(5) of the Regulations contains a rule for the purposes of the definitions in subsection 2405(3). It provides that the cost of property is to be determined without regard to the mark-to-market requirement in subsection 142.5(2) of the Act. Thus, the cost of mark-to-market property will not change each year for the purpose of the definitions in subsection 2405(3). This rule is relevant for determining the "valuation" of shares, and hence the "value for the year" of shares. As a consequence of this rule, the original cost of shares to an insurer will generally be used in measuring the Canadian investment fund, designating property, and determining any additional investment revenue prescribed by section 2411.

Subsection 2405(5) applies to taxation years ending after October 30, 1994.

2406. Sections 2404 and 2405 do not apply to the 1999 and subsequent taxation years.

History: S. 2406 was amended by P.C. 2000-1714, SOR/2000-413, dated November 30, 2000, applicable to the 1999 and subsequent taxation years. S. 2406 formerly read:

"S. 2406. Notwithstanding any other provision in this Part, an insurance property or an investment property, in respect of an insurer, does not include a policy loan payable to the insurer."

(i) the amount determined under clause 138(3)(a)(iii)(A) of the Act for the insurer's 1977 taxation year (determined without reference to paragraph 138(3.1)(b) of the Act),

exceeds

(ii) the amount determined under clause 138(3)(a)(iii)(B) of the Act for the insurer's 1977 taxation year; and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the insurer's maximum tax actuarial reserve for its participating life insurance policies in Canada for its 1977 taxation year,

(iii) the aggregate of all amounts payable to the insurer in respect of policy loans outstanding at the end of its 1977 taxation year in respect of participating life insurance policies in Canada, and

(iv) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the insurer's maximum tax actuarial reserve for its participating life insurance policies in Canada for its 1968 taxation year,

exceeds the aggregate of

(B) the amount that would have been the insurer's maximum tax actuarial reserve for its participating life insurance policies in Canada for its 1968 taxation year if that reserve had been determined on the basis of the rules applicable to its 1978 taxation year, and

(C) the aggregate of all amounts payable to the insurer in respect of policy loans outstanding at the end of its 1968 taxation year in respect of participating life insurance policies in Canada.

(ii) the aggregate of amounts each of which is a non-capital loss of the insurer for a taxation year ending after 1972 and before 1978 that would have been deductible by the insurer in computing its taxable income for a taxation year ending after 1977 if the Act were read without reference to subsection 111(7.2) thereof,

exceeds the aggregate of

(iv) the aggregate of the amounts that would have been the insurer's maximum tax actuarial reserves for its 1977 taxation year if those reserves had been determined on the basis of the rules applicable to its 1978 taxation year,

(v) the aggregate of all amounts payable to the insurer in respect of policy loans outstanding at the end of its 1977 taxation year, and

(vi) the amount, if any, by which

Investment revenue from class of property

Subsection 2411(4) provides that an insurer's net investment revenue from property of a particular class is determined by the formula "A – B", where A is the total of the gross investment revenue from the property, gains from the disposition of the property and other income inclusions in respect of the property, and B is losses from the property and other deductions in respect of the property. The amounts included in A and B in respect of property that has not been designated as property of an insurance business carried on by the insurer in Canada are determined as if the property had been so designated. Several changes are made to the determination of amounts A and B.

The descriptions of both A and B are amended to clarify that, in determining the amounts to be taken into account in respect of property that has not been designated, the property is to be treated as if it had been designated for each year from the time it was acquired.

The other changes to A are as follows:

- Paragraph (b) is repealed. This paragraph includes in A the amounts included in the insurer's income under paragraphs 138(4)(b) and (c) of the Act (profit on disposition of a Canada security, and amortization of discount on such a security). This amendment is consequential on the repeal of paragraphs 138(4)(b) and (c).
- New paragraph (c.1) includes in A the amounts that are included in the insurer's income by subsection 142.4(5) of the Act. That subsection includes in income the gain from the disposition of specified debt obligations after February 22, 1994 where the gain is not required to be amortized.
- Paragraph (d), which includes certain non-capital gains in A, is amended to replace the exclusion for gains from Canada securities by an exclusion for gains from specified debt obligations. Those gains are dealt with, in some cases, by new paragraph (c.1) and in other cases by new subsection 2411(4.1).
- Paragraph (i), which includes in A all amounts that are included in the insurer's income in respect of the property, but that are not specifically referred to in the preceding paragraphs, is amended so that it does not apply to amounts that are included in income by subsection 142.4(4) of the Act. New subsection 2411(4.1), in conjunction with amendments to subsections 2411(1) and (3), provides for subsection 142.4(4) amounts to be taken into account.

The changes to B, in addition to the change described above, are as follows:

- New paragraph (a.1) includes in B the amounts that are deductible under subsection 142.4(5) of the Act in computing the insurer's income. That subsection provides a deduction for the loss from the disposition of specified debt obligations after February 22, 1994 where the loss is not required to be amortized.
- Paragraph (b), which includes certain non-capital losses in B, is amended to replace the exclusion for losses from Canada securities by an exclusion for losses from specified debt obligations. Those losses are dealt with, in some cases, by new paragraph (a.1) and in other cases by new subsection 2411(4.1).
- Paragraph (c) is repealed. This paragraph includes in B the amounts that are deductible under paragraphs 138(3)(b) and (d) of the Act (loss on disposition of a Canada security, and amortization of premium on such a security). This amendment is consequential on the repeal of paragraphs 138(3)(b) and (d).

(c) all amounts that were or would be included in computing the insurer's taxable capital gains for the year from the disposition of the property,

(d) all amounts that were or would be included in computing the insurer's gains for the year from the disposition of the property (other than a Canada security or capital property),

Non-designated property

Where property has not been designated as property used or held in a Canadian insurance business, subsection 2411(4) applies on the assumption that the property had been so designated. Subsection 2411(5) contains an additional rule for this purpose. It provides that the property is to be considered property of the business in respect of which it is reported in the insurer's annual report. This rule was required because of the special rules for the tax treatment of debt obligations (referred to as Canada securities) that are property of a life insurance business. Subsection 2411(5) is repealed, for taxation years beginning after February 22, 1994, as a consequence of the repeal of the special rules for Canada securities.

History: S. 2411(5) was added by P.C. 1990-2002, SOR/90-661, dated September 20, 1990, applicable in respect of taxation years beginning after June 17, 1987 and ending after 1987.

(6) For the purposes of subsection (1), the balance of an insurer's cumulative excess account at the end of a taxation year shall be determined as the amount, if any, by which

(a) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is a positive amount, if any, determined in respect of each of such of its seven immediately preceding taxation years that began after June 17, 1987 and ended after 1987 by the formula where A and B are the amounts determined under subsection (1) in respect of the insurer for such immediately preceding taxation year,

exceeds

(b) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is an amount claimed by the insurer under subsection (1) in respect of its cumulative excess account for a preceding taxation year that can be attributed to a positive amount determined under paragraph (a) for that year and, for the purpose of this paragraph, a positive amount determined in respect of a taxation year shall be deemed to have been claimed before a positive amount determined in respect of any subsequent taxation year.

History: S. 2411(6) was added by P.C. 1990-2002, SOR/90-661, dated September 20, 1990 and applicable with respect to taxation years beginning after June 17, 1987 and ending after 1987.

(7) [Repealed.]

History: S. 2411(7) was repealed by P.C. 2000-1714, SOR/2000-413, dated November 30, 2000, applicable to the 1999 and subsequent taxation years. S. 2411(7) formerly read:

"(7) For the purposes of subsection (3),

(a) where the aggregate value for the year of property designated by the insurer for the year pursuant to paragraphs 2400(1)(a) to (d) exceeds the minimum value for the year of property required to be designated by the insurer for the year pursuant to those paragraphs, the aggregate value for the year of the property determined for the year under each of C, F and J of the formula set out in subsection (3) shall not exceed that minimum value for the year of such property that is required to be designated by the insurer for the year pursuant to paragraphs 2400(1)(a) to (d); and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (a), the value for the year of property required to be designated by the insurer for the year under F in the formula set out in subsection (3) shall be deemed to be the value for the year of such property designated by the insurer for the year."

(8) For the purposes of this section, "foreign investment property" of an insurer means investment property of the insurer (unless the insurer is a non-resident insurer and it is established by the insurer that the investment property is not effectively connected with its Canadian insurance businesses) that is not Canadian investment property of the insurer.

History: S. 2411(8) was added by P.C. 1990-2002, SOR/90-661, dated September 20, 1990 and applicable in respect of taxation years beginning after June 17, 1987 and ending after 1987.

(4) A reference to a "month" in this section means

(a) if an insurer's taxation year does not begin on the first day of a calendar month and the insurer elects to have this paragraph apply for the year, the period beginning on the day in a calendar month that has the same calendar number as the particular day on which the taxation year began and ending

Pending Amendment

Scientific Research and Experimental Development — October 27, 1998

The portion of paragraph 2902(e) before subparagraph (i) is replaced by the following:

(e) for the purpose of sections 194 and 195 of the Act, an expenditure of a current or capital nature, to the extent that the taxpayer has received or is entitled to receive a reimbursement in respect of the expenditure from Applicable: To amounts that become receivable after December 20, 1991.

Explanatory Note: Section 2902 defines a prescribed expenditure for the purposes of subsection 127(9) of the Income Tax Act. Prescribed expenditures are not eligible for investment tax credits.

Paragraph 2902(e) of the Income Tax Regulations is amended consequential on the amendments to the definition "contract payment" in subsection 127(9) of the Act. Those amendments provided that a contract payment included certain payments for scientific research and experimental development that is performed for or on behalf of a person entitled to a deduction in respect of the amount because of subparagraph 37(1)(a)(i) or (i.1) of the Act. Contract payments received reduce the base upon which a taxpayer's ITC in respect of SR&ED is calculated. Those amendments were effective for amounts that became payable after December 20, 1991. In view of the amended definition of "contract payment" applicable to ITCs in respect of SR&ED, the provisions of paragraph 2902(e) became redundant for ITC purposes. However, paragraph 2902(e) of the Regulations is still relevant in respect of claims for refunds of Part VIII Refundable Tax on Corporations in Respect of the Scientific Research and Experimental Development Tax Credit. Regulation 2902(e) is, therefore, amended to apply only for the purposes of the Part VIII Refundable Tax. This amendment applies to amounts that become receivable after December 20, 1991.

Section 4801 is also amended to update the language of the provision — these changes do not represent a change in tax policy. These amendments apply to the 2000 and subsequent taxation years.

Department of Finance Comfort Letter
[Permissible Shareholders for Corporations Used in Connection With Registered Pension Plans]

October 16, 2003

Dear XXXX:

This is in reply to your letter of September 9, 2003 in which you request a change to the income tax rules that would permit the XXXX and its wholly-owned subsidiaries to invest in corporations that are exempt from tax under paragraph 149(1)(o.2) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act"). I also wish to acknowledge discussions between Tax Legislation officials and your external tax counsel.

Based on our understanding that the XXXX activities are limited to the investment of the assets held in connection with the registered pension plans established under the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, the Public Service Superannuation Act, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act, we have no tax policy concerns with the XXXX investing in such corporations. Accordingly, we will recommend to the Minister of Finance that the income tax rules be amended to clarify that the XXXX and its wholly-owned subsidiaries are permissible shareholders for corporations described in paragraph 149(1)(o.2) of the Act, effective after September 2003.

I trust this is satisfactory.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein
Director
Tax Legislation Division

INTERPRETATION

5202. In this Part, except as otherwise provided in section 5203 or 5204,

"adjusted business income" of a corporation for a taxation year means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the income of the corporation for the year from an active business carried on in Canada

exceeds

(b) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the loss of the corporation for the year from an active business carried on in Canada;

"Canadian resource profits" has the meaning that would be assigned to the expression "resource profits" by section 1204 if

(a) section 1204 were read without reference to subparagraph 1204(1)(b)(iv), and

(b) the definition "resource activity" in subsection 1206(1) were read without reference to paragraph (d) of that definition;

History: S. 5202, the definition of "Canadian resource profits", was amended by P.C. 1996-1488, SOR/96-451, dated September 24, 1996, applicable to taxation years that begin after December 20, 1991. That definition formerly read:

"'Canadian resource profits' has the meaning that would be assigned to the expression 'resource profits' by subsection 1204(1) if that subsection were read without reference to subparagraph (b)(iv) thereof;"

S. 5202, the definition of "Canadian resource profits", was added by P.C. 1994-230, SOR/94-169, dated February 10, 1994, applicable to the 1990 and subsequent taxation years.

"cost of capital" of a corporation for a taxation year means an amount equal to the aggregate of

(a) 10 per cent of the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the gross cost to the corporation of a property referred to in paragraph 1100(1)(e), (f), (g) or (h), paragraph 1102(1)(d) or (g) or Schedule II that

(i) was owned by the corporation at the end of the year, and

(ii) was used by the corporation at any time during the year, and

(b) the aggregate of all amounts each of which is the rental cost incurred by the corporation during the year for the use of any property a portion of the gross cost of which would be included by virtue of paragraph (a) if the property were owned by the corporation at the end of the year, but for the purposes of this definition, the gross cost of a property or rental cost for the use of any property does not include that portion of those costs that reflects the extent to which the property was used by the corporation during the year

(c) in an active business carried on outside Canada, or

(d) to earn Canadian investment income or foreign investment income as defined in subsection 129(4) of the Act;

"cost of labour" of a corporation for a taxation year means an amount equal to the aggregate of

(a) the salaries and wages paid or payable during the year to all employees of the corporation for services performed during the year, and

(b) all other amounts each of which is an amount paid or payable during the year for the performance during the year, by any person other than an employee of the corporation, of functions relating to

(i) the management or administration of the corporation,

(ii) scientific research and experimental development, or

(iii) a service or function that would normally be performed by an employee of the corporation, but for the purposes of this definition, the salaries and wages referred to in paragraph (a) or other amounts referred to in paragraph (b) do not include that portion of those amounts that

(c) was included in the gross cost to the corporation of a property (other than a property that was manufactured by the corporation and leased during the year by the corporation to another person) that was included in computing the cost of capital of the corporation for the year, or

(d) was related to an active business carried on outside Canada by the corporation;

History: S. 5202, subparagraph (b)(ii) of the definition "cost of labour" was amended by P.C. 2000-1095, SOR/2000-296, dated July 27, 2000, applicable to costs incurred after February 27, 1995. S. 5202, subparagraph (b)(ii) of the definition "cost of labour" formerly read:

"(ii) scientific research as defined in section 2900, or"

"cost of manufacturing and processing capital" of a corporation for a taxation year means 100/85 of that portion of the cost of capital of the corporation for that year that reflects the extent to which each property included in the calculation thereof was used directly in qualified activities of the corporation during the year, but the amount so calculated shall not exceed the cost of capital of the corporation for the year;

"cost of manufacturing and processing labour" of a corporation for a taxation year means 100/75 of that portion of the cost of labour of the corporation for that year that reflects the extent to which

(a) the salaries and wages included in the calculation thereof were paid or payable to persons for the portion of their time that they were directly engaged in qualified activities of the corporation during the year, and

(b) the other amounts included in the calculation thereof were paid or payable to persons for the performance of functions that would be directly related to qualified activities of the corporation during the year if those persons were employees of the corporation, but the amount so calculated shall not exceed the cost of labour of the corporation for the year;

Department of Finance Comfort Letter
[Prescribed Foreign Spin-Off Distribution]

September 11, 2007

Dear XXXX

I am writing to you concerning your submission of December 18, 2006 to the Canada Revenue Agency (the CRA) with regard to the Canadian income tax treatment of a spin-off distribution effected on June 12, 2006 and in which XXXX distributed to its shareholders shares of XXXX. You have requested that the spin-off distribution be prescribed for the purpose of the Canadian foreign spin-off tax deferral rules.

Shareholders of a non-U.S. foreign spin-off distribution qualify for a tax deferral in respect of the distribution if the spin-off distribution satisfies various technical requirements in section 86.1 of the Income Tax Act and the distribution is prescribed on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance. The CRA has confirmed to Departmental officials that the XXXX distribution satisfies the technical requirements of the Canadian foreign spin-off tax deferral rules.

Based on our review of the general scheme of the income tax law of Sweden applicable to tax deferred spin-off distributions, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister an amendment to the Income Tax Regulations to prescribe the June 12, 2006 XXXX spin-off of XXXX shares for the purpose of the foreign spin-off distribution tax deferral under section 86.1 of the Income Tax Act. If passed, the necessary regulation identifying the distribution of XXXX shares as a prescribed distribution would be published in the Canada Gazette. While I cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister or Treasury Board will agree with our recommendations, I hope that this statement of our intention is helpful.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein

PART LIX
Foreign Affiliates

DIVIDENDS OUT OF EXEMPT, TAXABLE AND PRE-ACQUISITION SURPLUS

5900. (1) Where at any time a corporation resident in Canada or a foreign affiliate of the corporation receives a dividend on a share of any class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation,

(a) for the purposes of this Part and paragraph 113(1)(a) of the Act, the portion of the dividend paid out of the exempt surplus of the affiliate is prescribed to be that proportion of the dividend received that

(i) such portion of the whole dividend paid by the affiliate on the shares of that class at that time as was deemed by section 5901 to have been paid out of the affiliate's exempt surplus in respect of the corporation

is of

(ii) the whole dividend paid by the affiliate on the shares of that class at that time;

(b) for the purposes of this Part and subsection 91(5) and paragraphs 113(1)(b) and (c) of the Act, the portion of the dividend paid out of the taxable surplus of the affiliate is prescribed to be that proportion of the dividend received that

(i) such portion of the whole dividend paid by the affiliate on the shares of that class at that time as was deemed by section 5901 to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation

is of

(ii) the whole dividend paid by the affiliate on the shares of that class at that time;

(c) for the purposes of this Part and paragraph 113(1)(d) of the Act, the portion of the dividend paid out of the pre-acquisition surplus of the affiliate is prescribed to be that proportion of the dividend received that

(i) such portion of the whole dividend paid by the affiliate on the shares of that class at that time as was deemed by section 5901 to have been paid out of the affiliate's pre-acquisition surplus in respect of the corporation

(ii) the whole dividend paid by the affiliate on the shares of that class at that time; and

(d) for the purposes of this Part and paragraph 113(1)(b) of the Act, the foreign tax applicable to the portion of the dividend prescribed to have been paid out of the taxable surplus of the affiliate is prescribed to be that proportion of the underlying foreign tax applicable, in respect of the corporation, to the whole dividend paid by the affiliate on the shares of that class at that time that

(i) the amount of the dividend received by the corporation or the affiliate, as the case may be, on that share at that time

is of

(ii) the whole dividend paid by the affiliate on the shares of that class at that time.

Interpretation Bulletins: Secondary— IT-392 Meaning of the term "share" [Archived by the CRA].

(2) Notwithstanding paragraphs (1)(a) and (b), where at any time a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada pays a dividend on a share of a class of its capital stock (other than a share in respect of which an election is made under subsection 93(1) of the Act) to the corporation, the corporation may, in its return of income under Part I of the Act for its taxation year in which the dividend was received by it, designate an amount not exceeding the portion of the dividend received that would, but for this subsection, be prescribed to have been paid out of the affiliate's exempt surplus in respect of the corporation and that amount

Pending Amendment

Foreign Affiliates — Partnerships — March 16, 2001

The portion of subsection 5900(2) of the Income Tax Regulations before paragraph (a) is replaced by the following:

(2) Notwithstanding paragraphs (1)(a) and (b), where at any time a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada pays a dividend on a share of a class of its capital stock (other than a dividend referred to in subsection 93(1) or (1.2) of the Act) to the corporation, the corporation may, in its return of income under Part I of the Act for its taxation year in which the dividend was received by it, designate an amount not exceeding the portion of the dividend received that would, but for this subsection, be prescribed to have been paid out of the affiliate's exempt surplus in respect of the corporation and that amount

Applicable: To dividends received after November 1999.

Explanatory Note: Subsection 5900(2) of the Income Tax Regulations allows a corporation resident in Canada to elect to have a dividend paid by a foreign affiliate of the corporation to be treated as having been paid out of the taxable surplus rather than out of the exempt surplus of the affiliate. This election is not available where the corporation has elected under subsection 93(1) of the Act to treat proceeds of disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate as a dividend. The amendment ensures that the election in subsection 5900(2) will not apply where the corporation has elected under new subsection 93(1.2) of the Act to treat all or a portion of its gain from a partnership arising on the disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate by the partnership as a dividend.

This amendment applies to dividends received after November 1999.

(a) is prescribed to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation and not to have been paid out of that exempt surplus; and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (1)(d) and the definitions "underlying foreign tax" and "underlying foreign tax applicable" in subsection 5907(1) is deemed to have been paid by the affiliate to the corporation as a separate whole dividend on the shares of that class of the capital stock immediately after that time, and that whole dividend is deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation.

History: S. 5900(2)(a) and (b) were amended by P.C. 1997-1670, SOR/97-505, dated November 20, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) those provisions apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate; and

(b) in applying subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations, for taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin before 1996 and in respect of which subsection 8(13) does not apply, the references to "designated treaty country" shall be read as "country listed in subsection (11)". S. 5900(2)(a) and (b) formerly read:

"(a) shall be prescribed to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation and not to have been paid out of that exempt surplus; and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (1)(d) and paragraphs 5907(1)(l) and (m) shall be deemed to have been paid by the affiliate to the corporation as a separate whole dividend on the shares of that class of the capital stock immediately after that time and such whole dividend shall be deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation."

(3) For the purposes of subsection 91(5) of the Act, where at any time an individual resident in Canada receives a dividend on a share of any class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of that individual, the affiliate shall be deemed to have an amount of taxable surplus in respect of the individual and the portion of the dividend paid out of the taxable surplus of the affiliate in respect of the individual is prescribed to be an amount equal to the dividend received.

Pending Amendment

Foreign Affiliates — Partnerships — March 16, 2001

Subsection 5900(3) of the Regulations is replaced by the following:

(3) For the purpose of subsection 91(5) of the Act, where at any time a person (other than a corporation) resident in Canada receives a dividend on a share of any class of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of that person, the affiliate is deemed to have an amount of taxable surplus in respect of the person and the portion of the dividend paid out of the taxable surplus of the affiliate in respect of the person is prescribed to be an amount equal to the dividend received.

Applicable: To dividends received after November 1999.

Explanatory Note: Subsection 5900(3) of the Regulations applies where an individual resident in Canada receives a dividend from a foreign affiliate. For the purpose of subsection 91(5) of the Act, subsection 5900(3) deems the individual to have received all dividends out of the taxable surplus of the affiliate. Subsection 91(5) of the Act permits deductions in respect of dividends paid out of the taxable surplus of an affiliate to the extent that that surplus is represented by foreign accrual property income of the affiliate that has been taxed in the hands of the dividend recipient.

The amendment to subsection 5900(3) replaces the word "individual" with the phrase "person (other than a corporation)". This amendment clarifies that, for the purpose of subsection 91(5), where a partnership is deemed to be a person under section 96 of the Act the partnership is deemed to have received all dividends out of taxable surplus.

This amendment applies to dividends received after November 1999.

Order of Surplus Distributions

5901. (1) Where at any time in its taxation year a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada has paid a whole dividend on the shares of any class of its capital stock, for the purposes of this Part

(a) the portion of the whole dividend deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's exempt surplus in respect of the corporation at that time is an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount of the whole dividend, and

(ii) the amount by which that exempt surplus exceeds the affiliate's taxable deficit in respect of the corporation at that time;

(b) the portion of the whole dividend deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation at that time is an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the amount of the whole dividend exceeds the portion determined under paragraph (a), and

(ii) the amount by which that taxable surplus exceeds the affiliate's exempt deficit in respect of the corporation at that time; and

(c) the portion of the whole dividend deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's pre-acquisition surplus in respect of the corporation at that time is the amount by which the whole dividend exceeds the aggregate of the portions determined under paragraphs (a) and (b).

(2) Notwithstanding subsection (1), where a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada pays a whole dividend (other than a whole dividend referred to in subsection 5902(1)) at any particular time in its taxation year that is more than 90 days after the commencement of that year or at any particular time in its 1972 taxation year that is before January 1, 1972, the portion of the whole dividend that would, but for this subsection, be deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's pre-acquisition surplus in respect of the corporation is deemed to have been paid out of the exempt surplus and taxable surplus of the affiliate in respect of the corporation to the extent that it would have been deemed to have been so paid if, immediately after the end of that year, that portion were paid as a separate whole dividend before any whole dividend paid after the particular time and after any whole dividend paid before the particular time by the affiliate, and for the purposes of determining the exempt deficit, exempt surplus, taxable deficit, taxable surplus and underlying foreign tax of the affiliate in respect of the corporation at any time, that portion is deemed to have been paid as a separate whole dividend immediately following the end of the year and not to have been paid at the particular time.

(3) Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), for the purposes of the definitions "exempt deficit", "exempt surplus", "taxable deficit" and "taxable surplus" in subsection 5907(1), any amount designated pursuant to subsection 5900(2) in respect of a dividend paid by a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada increases the portion of the whole dividend deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation and decreases the portion of the whole dividend deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's exempt surplus in respect of the corporation.

History: S. 5901(2) and (3) were amended by P.C. 1997-1670, SOR/97-505, dated November 20, 1997, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1994, except that

(a) those provisions apply to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1994 where there has been a change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, unless

(i) the foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation, or

(ii) the first taxation year of the foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the foreign affiliate; and

(b) in applying subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations, for taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin before 1996 and in respect of which subsection 8(13) does not apply, the references to "designated treaty country" shall be read as "country listed in subsection (11)". S. 5901(2) and (3) formerly read:

"(2) Notwithstanding subsection (1), where a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada pays a whole dividend (other than a whole dividend referred to in subsection 5902 (1)) at any particular time in its taxation year that is more than 90 days after the commencement of that year or at any particular time in its 1972 taxation year that is prior to January 1, 1972, the portion thereof that would, but for this subsection, be deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's pre-acquisition surplus in respect of the corporation shall be deemed to have been paid out of the exempt surplus and taxable surplus of the affiliate in respect of the corporation to the extent that it would have been deemed to have been so paid if, immediately following the end of that year, that portion were paid as a separate whole dividend before any whole dividend paid after the particular time and after any whole dividend paid before the particular time by the affiliate and for the purposes of determining the amounts under paragraphs 5907(1)(d), (k) and (l) at any time that portion shall be deemed to have been paid as a separate whole dividend immediately following the end of the year and not to have been paid at the particular time.

(3) Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), for the purposes of paragraphs 5907(1)(d) and (k), any amount designated pursuant to subsection 5900(2) in respect of a dividend paid by a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada shall increase the portion of the whole dividend deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's taxable surplus in respect of the corporation and decrease the portion of the whole dividend deemed to have been paid out of the affiliate's exempt surplus in respect of the corporation."

Election in Respect of Capital Gains

5902. (1) Where at any time a dividend is, by virtue of an election made under subsection 93(1) of the Act in respect of a disposition, deemed to have been received on one or more shares of a class of the capital stock of a particular foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada, the following rules apply:

The portion of subsection 5902(1) of the Regulations before paragraph (a) is replaced by the following:

Applicable: To dispositions that occur after November 1999.

Explanatory Note: Section 5902 of the Regulations applies where a corporation elects to treat proceeds of disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate as a dividend under subsection 93(1) of the Act. Subsection 5902(1) computes a foreign affiliate's surplus accounts and the amount of a whole dividend used in applying subsection 5901(1) for the purposes of subsection 5900(1) of the Regulations. The amendment to subsection 5902(1) ensures that the subsection will also apply where the corporation resident in Canada has elected under new subsection 93(1.2) of the Act to treat a gain from a partnership arising on the disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate of the corporation by the partnership as a dividend.

This amendment applies to dispositions that occur after November 1999.

(i) each other foreign affiliate of the corporation in which the affiliate had an equity percentage had immediately before that time paid a dividend equal to its net surplus in respect of the corporation immediately before the dividend was paid, and

(ii) any dividend referred to in subparagraph (i) that any other foreign affiliate would have received had been received by it immediately before any such dividend that it would have paid;

(b) determine the amount that would have been received on the shares (of that class) in respect of which an election is made, if the particular affiliate had at that time paid dividends the aggregate of which on all shares of its capital stock was equal to the amount of its net surplus referred to in paragraph (a); and

(i) the particular affiliate's exempt surplus or exempt deficit, taxable surplus or taxable deficit and underlying foreign tax in respect of the corporation shall be deemed to be the respective amounts thereof referred to in paragraph (a), and

(ii) the particular affiliate shall be deemed to have paid a whole dividend at that time on the shares of that class of its capital stock in an amount equal to the product obtained when the aggregate of amounts so deemed by subsection 93(1) of the Act to have been received as dividends on shares of that class is multiplied by the greater of

Applicable: To dispositions that occur after November 1999.

Explanatory Note: Section 5902 of the Regulations applies where a corporation elects to treat proceeds of disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate as a dividend under subsection 93(1) of the Act. Subsection 5902(1) computes a foreign affiliate's surplus accounts and the amount of a whole dividend used in applying subsection 5901(1) for the purposes of subsection 5900(1) of the Regulations. The amendment to subsection 5902(1) ensures that the subsection will also apply where the corporation resident in Canada has elected under new subsection 93(1.2) of the Act to treat a gain from a partnership arising on the disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate of the corporation by the partnership as a dividend.

Subsection 5902(1) of the Income Tax Regulations is replaced by the following:

(1) If, at a particular time, one or more shares (each of which is referred to in this subsection as a "disposed share") of a class (referred to in this subsection as the specified class) of the capital stock of a particular foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada are disposed of by a particular shareholder of the particular foreign affiliate and, because of an election made under subsection 93(1) or (1.2), as the case may be, of the Act in respect of that disposition, a dividend is deemed under subsection 93(1) or (1.2) of the Act to have been received on a disposed share at the time (referred to in this subsection and section 5905 as the "dividend time") that is immediately before the particular time, the following rules apply:

(a) the amount of the particular foreign affiliate's exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, (in this subsection referred to as the "consolidated exempt surplus" in respect of the corporation resident in Canada) at the time (in this section and in section 5905 referred to as the "calculation time") that is immediately before the dividend time, is deemed to be the amount that would be its exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, at the calculation time if

(i) the particular foreign affiliate and each other foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada in which the particular foreign affiliate had, at the calculation time, an equity percentage (each of which other foreign affiliates is referred to in this section as a "subsidiary affiliate") had (except for the purpose of determining consolidated net surplus in respect of the corporation resident in Canada in subparagraph (iii)), at the calculation time, no amount of exempt deficit, taxable surplus or taxable deficit, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada,

(ii) the amount of the exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, of the particular foreign affiliate were, immediately before the calculation time, increased by the total of all amounts each of which is an amount equal to the particular foreign affiliate's proportionate share of the amount that would be the exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, of a subsidiary affiliate in which it has, immediately before the calculation time, a direct equity percentage if that exempt surplus were, immediately before the calculation time, determined in the following manner:

(A) the exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, of the subsidiary affiliate, were increased by the subsidiary affiliate's proportionate share of the exempt surplus of a foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada in which the subsidiary affiliate has, immediately before the time that is immediately before the calculation time, a direct equity percentage, and

(B) the exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, of a subsidiary affiliate in which another subsidiary affiliate has a direct equity percentage, were increased because of this subparagraph before the increase in that other subsidiary affiliate's exempt surplus in respect of the corporation resident in Canada,

(iii) for the purpose of subparagraph (ii), the proportionate share, at any time, of a foreign affiliate (referred to in this subparagraph as the "calculating foreign affiliate") of the corporation resident in Canada, of the exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, of another foreign affiliate (referred to in this subparagraph as the "providing foreign affiliate") of the corporation resident in Canada in which the calculating foreign affiliate has a direct equity percentage were equal to the proportion determined by the following formula:

A is the amount of dividends that would be received, at that time, by the calculating foreign affiliate from the providing foreign affiliate if, at that time, the providing foreign affiliate had paid dividends on all of its shares and the total of those dividends were equal to its consolidated net surplus (determined using the provisions of this subsection on the assumption that the providing foreign affiliate were the particular foreign affiliate), in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, or, where it does not have such a consolidated net surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, its consolidated exempt surplus (determined in accordance with this paragraph on the assumption that the providing foreign affiliate were the particular foreign affiliate), in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, at that time, and

B is the amount of the providing foreign affiliate's consolidated net surplus (determined using the provisions of this subsection on the assumption that the providing foreign affiliate were the particular foreign affiliate), in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, or, where it does not have such consolidated net surplus, its consolidated exempt surplus (determined in accordance with this paragraph on the assumption that the providing foreign affiliate were the particular foreign affiliate), in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, at that time, and

(iv) in determining, under this paragraph, the particular foreign affiliate's consolidated exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada,

(A) no amount were included, directly or indirectly, in respect of the exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, of the particular shareholder, of the particular foreign affiliate, that disposed of the disposed share, and

(B) no amount were included, directly or indirectly, in respect of the exempt surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, of the particular foreign affiliate or any subsidiary affiliate more than once;

(b) the amount of the particular foreign affiliate's exempt deficit, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, (in this subsection referred to as the "consolidated exempt deficit" in respect of the corporation resident in Canada) at the calculation time, is deemed to be the amount that would be its exempt deficit, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, at that time if

(i) the particular foreign affiliate and each subsidiary affiliate had (except for the purpose of determining consolidated net surplus, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada, in subparagraph (iii)), at the calculation time, no amount of exempt surplus, taxable surplus or taxable deficit, in respect of the corporation resident in Canada,

Explanatory Note: Section 5902 of the Income Tax Regulations applies where a corporation elects to treat proceeds of disposition of a share of a foreign affiliate as a dividend under subsection 93(1) of the Income Tax Act. Subsection 5902(1) of the Regulations computes a foreign affiliate's surplus accounts and the amount of a whole dividend used in applying subsection 5901(1) for the purposes of subsection 5900(1) of the Regulations.

Subsection 5902(1) is replaced with a new subsection that changes how the exempt surplus or exempt deficit, taxable surplus or taxable deficit, underlying foreign tax and net surplus is determined for the foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada whose shares are disposed of and in respect of which disposition an election under subsection 93(1) or (1.2) of the Act is made by the corporation resident in Canada.

Under proposed subsection 5902(1), the surplus balances of the foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada (the "disposed foreign affiliate") are to be computed using a new consolidation approach, which will take into account the surpluses and deficits of foreign affiliates, for the disposed foreign affiliate and any other foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada in which the disposed foreign affiliate has an equity percentage.

As well, under proposed subsection 5902(1), the amount of an election in respect of a disposed share will be capped at the amount of the attributed net surplus in respect of the share determined under the rules in that new subsection.
